Congress Returns With Eyes On Election

Ike To Outline His Program For '54 Today

Controversial Bills Due To Dissipate Air Of Good Fellowship

WASHINGTON, Jan 6 (AP)—Congress came back in a back-slapping mood today to an election year session attuned to White House hopes for a peaceful world and a prosperous America.

Today there was no legislative business, only prayers, eulogies for the late Chief Justice Vinson and a sort of birthday party on the House floor for 72-year-old Sam Rayburn, the Democratic leader.

Tomorrow President Eisenhower comes before a combined Senate-House session to deliver his State of the Union message sketching a legislative program for 1954.

From then on, in the clashing cross currents of a campaign year, the air of gay good fellowship may drift away like the mists of the morning.

Demo Unity Strengthened

For Democrats in Congress are almost as numerous as Republicans. And they are showing signs of a strengthened unity brought on by lashing Republican attacks and a dislike for many portions of Eisenhower's home front program.

And in the field of foreign policy, Eisenhower may run up against as much opposition from Republicans as from Democrats.

No major legislation is on tap before next week, at the earliest.

In the Senate, the GOP Policy Committee mapped out a program that is likely to set off the first blasts of controversy in the new session. It includes for next week not only a batch of minor legislation but also a start on either the St. Lawrence seaway plan or a proposal to limit the President's treaty making powers—a pair of items charged with legislative dynamite.

"Four-Bit Session"

The policy committee chairman, Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), announced that three of the upcoming bills would authorize the coining of 50-cent pieces to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase and the 300th anniversaries of the foundings of New York City and Northampton, Mass.

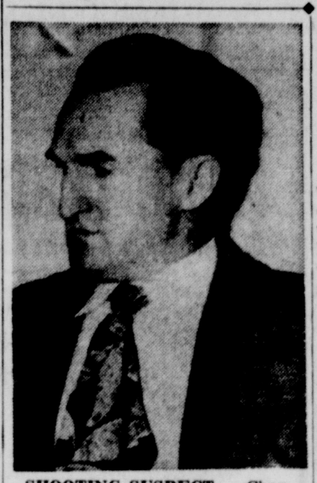

"Looks like a four-bit session," a smiling reporter remarked to Ferguson.

But plenty of more important measures lie ahead. Eisenhower offers his farm and labor programs to Congress Monday, and controversy already is swirling around them.

Up on Capitol Hill gavels fell exactly at noon in the Senate and House chambers. Legislators and onlookers in crowded galleries bowed in prayer with the chaplains. Then the membership rolls were called.

Once again, after five months of idleness, the legislative merry-go-round was ready to start whirling.

Police Claim Reuther Shooting Case Solved

Quartet Accused While Four Other Persons Sought

DETROIT, Jan. 6 (AP)—Prosecutors today accused four men of conspiracy and assault with intent to murder CIO President Walter P. Reuther five years ago, and withheld names of four other persons sought in what they called a "solution" to the attempted assassination.

Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien disclosed names of three men in jail and a fourth still being sought, but withheld names of the other four and information on evidence he had before the pre-dawn announcement and arrests today.

Warrants for arrest of the men were based on police information and officials said no grand jury action would be required to bring them to trial.

Figured In Crime Hearings

One of those arrested and the one sought figured prominently in hearings of the Kefauver Senate Crime Committee here in February, 1951. Both conceded they had made huge profits on scrap metal contracts with two companies, both often the scenes of violence in union attempts to organize them.

One is Carl Renda, 35, arrested at his home in expensive, suburban Grosse Pointe, and the other is his father-in-law, Santo (Sam) Perrone, 56, an ex-convict whose police record dates back to 1920. Perrone is sought. Renda stood mute on arraignment and was placed under $25,000 bail.

Clarence Jacobs, 48, of Tecumseh, Ont., was taken in custody in nearby Windsor, Ont., and O'Brien said that the fourth man named in the warrant, Peter Lombardo, 51, is serving five years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for possession of counterfeit money.

Jacobs Called Triggerman

Jacobs was arraigned on a Canadian fugitive warrant and remanded to jail, pending an extradition hearing Jan. 14—the same date set for Renda's examination.

Jacobs was named as a triggerman at his arraignment in the Essex County (Ontario) Court House.

Reuther, then and now president of the CIO United Auto Workers Union, was shot through a kitchen window of his home April 20, 1948. A shotgun charge crippled his right arm.

His brother, Victor, was wounded in a similar attempted assassination May 24, 1949. He lost an eye. Victor now is educational director for the UAW. O'Brien said today's arrests did not solve the assault on Victor Reuther.

Indian Request For Reds' POW Views Ignored

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Indian Command today faced a new dilemma in the critical issue of what to do with 22,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war after Jan. 22.

Apparently the Communists ignored the Indian request to give their views on the issue by Wednesday midnight. The United Nations Command already had told India it would insist on release of prisoners as provided in the truce agreement.

As the showdown date of Jan. 23 neared, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th Army commander, in a statement warned restive South Korea against taking any armed action against India's custodial forces to effect release of the prisoners.

While India was seeking a solution to the prisoner problem, Kenneth Young of the U.S. State Department continued secret negotiations through a neutral intermediary for a resumption of preliminary peace talks. Young said he and the Communists "are still feeling around."

(In Washington Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, just back from a trip to Korea, told reporters he thought "the negotiations will get going again.")

A new note of mystery was injected into the Indian Command's activity. The Indians disclosed they had sent a secret memorandum to both the Allied and Communist Commands. They asked a reply by last midnight, but neither side had answered by that time.

Navy Plane, 10 Aboard, Is Missing Off Korea

TOKYO, Thursday, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Navy said today a twin-engined Neptune patrol plane with 10 men aboard was missing and presumed lost off the southwest coast of Korea.

Bandage Of Plastic Is Just Sprayed-On

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—A spray-on bandage that puts a transparent, flexible plastic film over wounds or burns was made available to doctors today.

The plastic sprays from a can or bomb just as insecticides are sprayed from insect bombs.

The plastic dries quickly, keeping germs out and vital fluids in. It can be washed, and is peeled off easily when the wound heals or needs additional treatment. The doctor can look through the bandage to see how the injury is coming along.

Byrd Renews Fight Against Debt Lid Hike

But Two Other Key Solons Would Back Boost If Necessary

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Two key senators said today they would vote for a moderate increase in the national debt limit if necessary, but Sen. Byrd (D-Va) declared anew he would fight any hike.

An administration bill to raise the limit from 275 billion dollars to 290 billion was blocked by an 11-4 vote in the Senate Finance Committee last summer.

Two members of the committee who voted against the increase at that time—Sens. George (D-Ga) and Flanders (R-Vt) — made it known today they are not adamant against a boost.

Byrd Stands Firm

While any increase in the debt ceiling is still distasteful to him, George said, he has told the Eisenhower administration that he would go along with a "reasonable" increase if it is imperative.

Flanders said in a separate interview that he was now inclined to support an increase of as much as 10 billion, with the hope it would not have to be used.

Byrd, however, held to his position that the administration could stay under the 275 billion dollar ceiling by economizing. He led the fight against the boost in the Finance Committee last year.

Byrd displayed a table—based on Treasury figures—which indicated the national debt would be $271,700,000,000 and the government's cash balance is $6,200,000,000 on next June 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

9½ Billion "Cushion"

This, the Virginia senator said, would give the government a 9½ billion dollar "cushion" at the end of the financial year.

But Treasury men have argued in the past that the government's financial position worsens in the first half of a fiscal year because the biggest revenue returns come in the last half of the 12-month period. March is the biggest revenue month. Byrd's table estimated receipts for March of this year at $12,700,000,000.

Social Security Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Rep. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb) today introduced a bill to revamp the nation's Social Security system and declared this is "our last good opportunity to make the program sound."

Curtis is chairman of the Social Security subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Curtis plan would place virtually all retired persons over age 65 on the rolls for monthly payments from the Old Age and Survivors Insurance (OASI) program and extend tax coverage to almost the entire working force under 65.

It would raise minimum monthly benefits from the present $25 to $45, and provide other more liberal benefits without changing the present maximum of $85 to an individual or $167.50 to a family.

25 Years Of Farm Aid Costs U. S. 14 Billions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Direct federal farm aid programs have cost the government about 14 billion dollars since the days of the Hoover Farm Board 25 years ago.

This estimate, as calculated by the Agriculture Department, came to light at a time when the Eisenhower administration is facing the prospect of having to ask Congress for several billion dollars more to carry out the congressional price guarantees to farmers.

Officials said the cost figures have been collected in response to congressional requests.

GI Hopes To Wed Russian Girl

Cpl. Daniel F. Calley, 25, Turtle Creek, Pa., holds hands with Lubov N. Dimova, attractive Russian girl he has applied to the Army for permission to marry. Clutching a doll is Sonia, 4-year-old daughter of Lubov. A resident of Pusan, Korea, Lubov was first held in an Allied stockade, but is now classified as a displaced person. If granted permission to marry, Calley says he hopes to take Lubov and her daughter back to the U. S. when he is rotated home in May.

Italians Fighting To Hold Broken Po River Dikes

MILAN, Italy, Jan. 6 (AP)—Police, firemen and volunteers fought tonight to hold the broken dikes of Italy's Po River delta against tides from the storm-swept Adriatic which already have flooded six villages and poured killing salt water over hundreds of acres of farm land.

The battle against the sea developed as snow and ice glazed most of Western Europe from Britain to Italy.

Boats Evacuate 200

Starting before dawn, boats manned by firemen and police carried 200 residents to safety. The rescue crews worked on into the dusk tonight to try to reach at least 300 others who clung to rooftops or waited for aid at upstairs windows.

Authorities ordered the evacuation speeded. They warned that tonight's flood tides may be even worse than those last night.

Scores of men worked all day to sandbag and reinforce the holes torn through the walls which have guarded the lowland since the disastrous Po Valley floods of 1951. Those floods, which came from the river itself after weeks of heavy rain, killed more than 100 persons and caused damage estimated at more than 200 million dollars.

Blizzard Continues Toll

The worst flooded section today was triangular Camerini Island, 12 miles long, formed between two channels of the Po mouth. It was almost entirely under water.

Elsewhere from Trieste to Genoa the worst January blizzard in 15 years continued its toll. In most places, the heavy snowfall stopped.

Bill Would Outlaw Communism In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—A bill to make membership in the Communist party punishable by a fine of up to $5,000 and 10 years imprisonment was introduced today by Rep. Clardy (R-Mich), a member of the House Unamerican Activities Committee.

The bill also would outlaw "any other organization having for one of its purposes or aims the control, conduct, seizure, or overthrow of the government by force or violence."

Profits By Error

SHERMAN, Tex., Jan. 6 (AP)—Cal Williams had a newly painted house today. Didn't cost him a penny. Painter's mistake. Wrong house.

15 Die In Crash Of British Plane

ALDBURY, England, Jan. 6 (AP)—A two-engine Royal Air Force troop carrier plane carrying an RAF rugby team crashed on a blizzard swept hillside tonight, killing 15 of the 16 men aboard.

Two men were pulled alive from the wreckage strewn over the snow at Toms Hill, 30 miles north of London. One died in a hospital; the other was in critical condition.

The pilot of the plane, a Valetta, apparently became blinded by the storm and crashed into trees.

Teacher Linked To Reds Is Fired

BOSTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Boston University late today fired Prof. Maurice Halperin whose name was linked last November by the FBI to a Communist spy ring in high government circles.

Halperin was suspended by the university a day after his name was read to the Jenner committee in Washington by Atty. Gen. Brownell.

Last spring Halperin, was "reprimanded and severely censured" by the university for failing to testify before Jenner's committee, and because of an uncooperative attitude with the university's Board of Review.

Halperin was not available for comment and a university spokesman declined to reveal his whereabouts.

Law Finally Catches Up

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—A 46-year-old motorist was fined $1,189.50 today for 18 traffic violations accumulated over four years. Unable to pay, Joseph B. Adams was ordered to work out the fine at $1.50 a day in Cook County jail.

Two More Held As Hunt Pressed For "Hot" Money

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Secret Service agents quizzed four more persons today in a broadening search for $31,700 still missing in the daring New Year's Eve theft of $160,000 from the Federal Bureau of Engraving, the nation's paper money factory.

Two of the four were released after being questioned while the other two were held.

That made a total of five persons, including two women, held in custody since the anguished father of one of the suspects broke the case to police yesterday.

Authorities said some of the money — believed spirited from the heavily guarded plant in "false pockets" worn by a $3,460-a-year Negro employe — was passed in a whirlwind spending spree in Washington and Baltimore.

At least three automobiles, liquor and other luxuries were reported to have been purchased with stolen $20 greenbacks as the suspects tried desperately to get rid of the "hot" money fresh from the goverment's printing presses.

Meanwhile, the man who tipped off police where to find the major share of the money expressed fear that he might be "bumped off," and another man told police he had been savagely beaten by two men who accused him of "squealing" that they had spent some of the stolen money.

Irving Grant, 45, Negro chauffeur-butler on a palatial 340-acre estate near Middleburg, Va., told newsmen with a nervous snap of his fingers:

"I figure my life isn't worth that. I know my life is in danger."

It was Grant's tip to police that led to the arrest of his daughter, Mamie, 26; her husband, James Rufus Landis, 29, a $58-a-week employe at the Bureau of Engraving; and another suspect, William Giles, 32, a government flagpole painter. All are Negroes.

Nation's Congresswomen Have Ambitious Programs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — The nation's women lawmakers are back on the job with ambitious programs.

Further, veterans about the Capitol said they seldom had seen as many wives of members at an opening congressional session as turned out today.

Mrs. Richard Nixon, dressed in tan, watched from the gallery along with the wives of numerous senators as her vice president husband opened the Senate.

Women predominated in the House galleries when Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., rapped his gavel to signal that the 83rd Congress' second session was in order.

Many of the major issues — to be dealt with — peace, paychecks, prices, pensions — are of especial interest to women both as legislators and as homemakers.

"Congress has a lot of work to do," said Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass) who as a veteran of 29 legislative years is dean of women in Congress.

As a starter she is proposing that the federal tax laws be amended to raise the exemption for dependents from $600 to $1,000.

"That will help keep money in circulation," said Mrs. Rogers, whose district is feeling the pinch of unemployment.

Two other congresswomen, Rep. Vera Buchanan (D-Penn) and Rep. Elizabeth Kee (D-WVa) of coal mining and industrial districts, said they intend to keep watchful eyes on employment trends.

Rep. Katharine St. George (R-NY) was not able to be here for the opening but she had a bill in the first day's hopper. It would prevent federal employes "who betray their trust" from drawing government retirement money.

Pool Plan Will Be Discussed In Washington

Procedural Huddle May Test Sincerity Of Soviet Interest

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The United States and Russia agreed tonight to hold preliminary talks concerning President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan.

First the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow announced that Russia was ready to begin the talks—which will deal with such questions as how, when and where negotiations on the President's idea will be held.

The State Department declared that Secretary of State Dulles "expects to proceed at an early date" with the conversations with the Russians.

World Pool Proposed

The President's plan calls for an international pool, to which atomic powers would contribute some of their atomic energy, for research and use on such peaceful projects as medicine, industrial power, etc.

The United States has been earnestly pressing Eisenhower's atomic pool idea. The President has taken the stand that, since Russia and the United States have been unable to agree to a system for control of atomic weapons, the practical thing to do is to approach the atomic problem from another angle—a pool of atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

The idea behind this is that if such a plan should work out, the cooperative effort among nations might lead eventually to cooperation on the issue of controlling or outlawing atomic weapons.

Test Of Soviet Sincerity

Although the talks to which Moscow agreed today would be purely preliminary, they could be of major importance.

For one thing, they could provide a tip-off to officials here as to whether Russia is really interested in making any progress now toward solving some of the international problems posed by the birth of the atomic age.

Henry Suydam, State Department press officer, gave reporters the department announcement that the talks would begin. He said the discussions would be held in Washington "as the Russians proposed." Otherwise, he said he could add nothing to the official U. S. statement.

U. S. Ends 1953 9 Billion In Red

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Treasury announced today it would end the calendar year 1953 slightly over nine billion dollars in the red.

This was a little less red ink than at the same time a year before.

The Treasury's financial statement for Dec. 31, 1953 was issued today. It showed the results of government income and spending from last July 1 through the end of the year. This six months was the first half of the 1954 fiscal year.

Net income July 1 through Dec. 31, 1953, $26,454,372,507.69. Net income from July 1 through Dec. 31, 1952 was $27,203,928,329.15

Expenditures in the last half of 1953 were $35,515,357,156.49, compared with $36,496,977,140.73 in the last half of 1952.

The deficit for the last half of 1953 was $9,060,984,648.80. This compared with a deficit of $9,293,048,811.58 during the last half of 1952.

BLE And Railroads Begin Negotiations

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—Representatives of nation's major railroads and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers today began negotiations on the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase.

The closed sessions are being held in a conference room at the Union Station.

Hecht Store Head Dies

Laniel Receives Confidence Vote

PARIS, Jan. 6 (AP) — Premier Joseph Laniel tonight won from the National Assembly a vote of confidence he demanded so "France can have a government solidly supported" for the Berlin conference of the Big Four foreign ministers. The count was 319-249 for Laniel.

Although it had been generally believed the Assembly would indorse him, the size of the vote in his favor was unexpected. Some deputies had talked yesterday of abstaining to cut down Laniel's majority. He urged all deputies today to vote for him or against him, and not to resort to abstentions.

"It would be better for the country to have a new ministerial crisis opened tonight than to have the executive power diminished by the vote," Laniel said.

He got the votes of most members of the parties that supported him at the time of his installation last June 26 except the Radical (moderate) Socialists. No official breakdown of the figures was announced, but it is believed only about 30 of the 70 Radical Socialists voted for him. De Gaullists, (MRP) voted almost as a bloc in Laniel's favor.

Death Valley Scotty Dies, Source Of Wealth Mystery

STOVEPIPE WELLS, Calif., Jan. 6 (AP)—Death Valley Scotty is dead, leaving behind the mystery of where he got the millions he spent so lavishly over the years.

The blue-eyed adventurer, California's most famous prospector since the Gold Rush, died last night in the three-million-dollar castle he built. The legendary old desert rat, subject of many gold-strike tales, succumbed at 81 to a gastrointestinal hemorrhage (bleeding in stomach and intestines).

In 1905 Scotty, whose real name was Walter Scott, climbed off a mule at Brawley, Calif., peeled yellow-backed bills from an enormous roll and chartered a special train into Los Angeles.

To gaping Southern Californians awed by his free spending he explained: "Oh, I've got a hole in the ground out in Death Valley."

His Spanish-Moorish castle, a showplace at the north end of Death Valley, took five years to build.

Yet the only wealth he is known to have was that of his late friend and benefactor, Albert Mussey Johnson, Chicago insurance executive. Johnson maintained Scotty in style.

Johnson, the castle's real owner, transferred the property to the Gospel Foundation of California when he died about six years ago. But he provided that Scotty could live there the rest of his life.

Friends planned to bury Scotty on a knoll overlooking the castle. "These have been good years," Scotty murmured shortly before dying.

The United States has been earnestly pressing Eisenhower's atomic pool idea. The President has taken the stand that, since Russia and the United States have been unable to agree to a system for control of atomic weapons, the practical thing to do is to approach the atomic problem from another angle—a pool of atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

The idea behind this is that if such a plan should work out, the cooperative effort among nations might lead eventually to cooperation on the issue of controlling or outlawing atomic weapons.

Test Of Soviet Sincerity

Although the talks to which Moscow agreed today would be purely preliminary, they could be of major importance.

For one thing, they could provide a tip-off to officials here as to whether Russia is really interested in making any progress now toward solving some of the international problems posed by the birth of the atomic age.

Henry Suydam, State Department press officer, gave reporters the department announcement that the talks would begin. He said the discussions would be held in Washington "as the Russians proposed." Otherwise, he said he could add nothing to the official U. S. statement.

Indian Request For Reds' POW Views Ignored

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Indian Command today faced a new dilemma in the critical issue of what to do with 22,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war after Jan. 22.

Apparently the Communists ignored the Indian request to give their views on the issue by Wednesday midnight. The United Nations Command already had told India it would insist on release of prisoners as provided in the truce agreement.

As the showdown date of Jan. 23 neared, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th Army commander, in a statement warned restive South Korea against taking any armed action against India's custodial forces to effect release of the prisoners.

While India was seeking a solution to the prisoner problem, Kenneth Young of the U.S. State Department continued secret negotiations through a neutral intermediary for a resumption of preliminary peace talks. Young said he and the Communists "are still feeling around."

(In Washington Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, just back from a trip to Korea, told reporters he thought "the negotiations will get going again.")

A new note of mystery was injected into the Indian Command's activity. The Indians disclosed they had sent a secret memorandum to both the Allied and Communist Commands. They asked a reply by last midnight, but neither side had answered by that time.

Bandage Of Plastic Is Just Sprayed-On

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—A spray-on bandage that puts a transparent, flexible plastic film over wounds or burns was made available to doctors today.

The plastic sprays from a can or bomb just as insecticides are sprayed from insect bombs.

The plastic dries quickly, keeping germs out and vital fluids in. It can be washed, and is peeled off easily when the wound heals or needs additional treatment. The doctor can look through the bandage to see how the injury is coming along.

Social Security Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Rep. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb) today introduced a bill to revamp the nation's Social Security system and declared this is "our last good opportunity to make the program sound."

Curtis is chairman of the Social Security subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Curtis plan would place virtually all retired persons over age 65 on the rolls for monthly payments from the Old Age and Survivors Insurance (OASI) program and extend tax coverage to almost the entire working force under 65.

It would raise minimum monthly benefits from the present $25 to $45, and provide other more liberal benefits without changing the present maximum of $85 to an individual or $167.50 to a family.

25 Years Of Farm Aid Costs U. S. 14 Billions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Direct federal farm aid programs have cost the government about 14 billion dollars since the days of the Hoover Farm Board 25 years ago.

This estimate, as calculated by the Agriculture Department, came to light at a time when the Eisenhower administration is facing the prospect of having to ask Congress for several billion dollars more to carry out the congressional price guarantees to farmers.

Officials said the cost figures have been collected in response to congressional requests.

Italians Fighting To Hold Broken Po River Dikes

MILAN, Italy, Jan. 6 (AP)—Police, firemen and volunteers fought tonight to hold the broken dikes of Italy's Po River delta against tides from the storm-swept Adriatic which already have flooded six villages and poured killing salt water over hundreds of acres of farm land.

The battle against the sea developed as snow and ice glazed most of Western Europe from Britain to Italy.

Boats Evacuate 200

Starting before dawn, boats manned by firemen and police carried 200 residents to safety. The rescue crews worked on into the dusk tonight to try to reach at least 300 others who clung to rooftops or waited for aid at upstairs windows.

Authorities ordered the evacuation speeded. They warned that tonight's flood tides may be even worse than those last night.

Scores of men worked all day to sandbag and reinforce the holes torn through the walls which have guarded the lowland since the disastrous Po Valley floods of 1951. Those floods, which came from the river itself after weeks of heavy rain, killed more than 100 persons and caused damage estimated at more than 200 million dollars.

Blizzard Continues Toll

The worst flooded section today was triangular Camerini Island, 12 miles long, formed between two channels of the Po mouth. It was almost entirely under water.

Elsewhere from Trieste to Genoa the worst January blizzard in 15 years continued its toll. In most places, the heavy snowfall stopped.

Bill Would Outlaw Communism In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—A bill to make membership in the Communist party punishable by a fine of up to $5,000 and 10 years imprisonment was introduced today by Rep. Clardy (R-Mich), a member of the House Unamerican Activities Committee.

The bill also would outlaw "any other organization having for one of its purposes or aims the control, conduct, seizure, or overthrow of the government by force or violence."

15 Die In Crash Of British Plane

ALDBURY, England, Jan. 6 (AP)—A two-engine Royal Air Force troop carrier plane carrying an RAF rugby team crashed on a blizzard swept hillside tonight, killing 15 of the 16 men aboard.

Two men were pulled alive from the wreckage strewn over the snow at Toms Hill, 30 miles north of London. One died in a hospital; the other was in critical condition.

The pilot of the plane, a Valetta, apparently became blinded by the storm and crashed into trees.

Teacher Linked To Reds Is Fired

BOSTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Boston University late today fired Prof. Maurice Halperin whose name was linked last November by the FBI to a Communist spy ring in high government circles.

Halperin was suspended by the university a day after his name was read to the Jenner committee in Washington by Atty. Gen. Brownell.

Last spring Halperin, was "reprimanded and severely censured" by the university for failing to testify before Jenner's committee, and because of an uncooperative attitude with the university's Board of Review.

Halperin was not available for comment and a university spokesman declined to reveal his whereabouts.

Law Finally Catches Up

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—A 46-year-old motorist was fined $1,189.50 today for 18 traffic violations accumulated over four years. Unable to pay, Joseph B. Adams was ordered to work out the fine at $1.50 a day in Cook County jail.

Two More Held As Hunt Pressed For "Hot" Money

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Secret Service agents quizzed four more persons today in a broadening search for $31,700 still missing in the daring New Year's Eve theft of $160,000 from the Federal Bureau of Engraving, the nation's paper money factory.

Two of the four were released after being questioned while the other two were held.

That made a total of five persons, including two women, held in custody since the anguished father of one of the suspects broke the case to police yesterday.

Authorities said some of the money — believed spirited from the heavily guarded plant in "false pockets" worn by a $3,460-a-year Negro employe — was passed in a whirlwind spending spree in Washington and Baltimore.

At least three automobiles, liquor and other luxuries were reported to have been purchased with stolen $20 greenbacks as the suspects tried desperately to get rid of the "hot" money fresh from the goverment's printing presses.

Meanwhile, the man who tipped off police where to find the major share of the money expressed fear that he might be "bumped off," and another man told police he had been savagely beaten by two men who accused him of "squealing" that they had spent some of the stolen money.

"I figure my life isn't worth that. I know my life is in danger."

It was Grant's tip to police that led to the arrest of his daughter, Mamie, 26; her husband, James Rufus Landis, 29, a $58-a-week employe at the Bureau of Engraving; and another suspect, William Giles, 32, a government flagpole painter. All are Negroes.

Nation's Congresswomen Have Ambitious Programs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — The nation's women lawmakers are back on the job with ambitious programs.

Further, veterans about the Capitol said they seldom had seen as many wives of members at an opening congressional session as turned out today.

Mrs. Richard Nixon, dressed in tan, watched from the gallery along with the wives of numerous senators as her vice president husband opened the Senate.

Women predominated in the House galleries when Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., rapped his gavel to signal that the 83rd Congress' second session was in order.

Many of the major issues — to be dealt with — peace, paychecks, prices, pensions — are of especial interest to women both as legislators and as homemakers.

"Congress has a lot of work to do," said Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass) who as a veteran of 29 legislative years is dean of women in Congress.

As a starter she is proposing that the federal tax laws be amended to raise the exemption for dependents from $600 to $1,000.

"That will help keep money in circulation," said Mrs. Rogers, whose district is feeling the pinch of unemployment.

Two other congresswomen, Rep. Vera Buchanan (D-Penn) and Rep. Elizabeth Kee (D-WVa) of coal mining and industrial districts, said they intend to keep watchful eyes on employment trends.

Rep. Katharine St. George (R-NY) was not able to be here for the opening but she had a bill in the first day's hopper. It would prevent federal employes "who betray their trust" from drawing government retirement money.

U. S. Ends 1953 9 Billion In Red

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Treasury announced today it would end the calendar year 1953 slightly over nine billion dollars in the red.

This was a little less red ink than at the same time a year before.

The Treasury's financial statement for Dec. 31, 1953 was issued today. It showed the results of government income and spending from last July 1 through the end of the year. This six months was the first half of the 1954 fiscal year.

Net income July 1 through Dec. 31, 1953, $26,454,372,507.69. Net income from July 1 through Dec. 31, 1952 was $27,203,928,329.15

Expenditures in the last half of 1953 were $35,515,357,156.49, compared with $36,496,977,140.73 in the last half of 1952.

The deficit for the last half of 1953 was $9,060,984,648.80. This compared with a deficit of $9,293,048,811.58 during the last half of 1952.

BLE And Railroads Begin Negotiations

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—Representatives of nation's major railroads and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers today began negotiations on the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase.

The closed sessions are being held in a conference room at the Union Station.

Laniel Receives Confidence Vote

PARIS, Jan. 6 (AP) — Premier Joseph Laniel tonight won from the National Assembly a vote of confidence he demanded so "France can have a government solidly supported" for the Berlin conference of the Big Four foreign ministers. The count was 319-249 for Laniel.

Although it had been generally believed the Assembly would indorse him, the size of the vote in his favor was unexpected. Some deputies had talked yesterday of abstaining to cut down Laniel's majority. He urged all deputies today to vote for him or against him, and not to resort to abstentions.

"It would be better for the country to have a new ministerial crisis opened tonight than to have the executive power diminished by the vote," Laniel said.

He got the votes of most members of the parties that supported him at the time of his installation last June 26 except the Radical (moderate) Socialists. No official breakdown of the figures was announced, but it is believed only about 30 of the 70 Radical Socialists voted for him. De Gaullists, (MRP) voted almost as a bloc in Laniel's favor.

Death Valley Scotty Dies, Source Of Wealth Mystery

STOVEPIPE WELLS, Calif., Jan. 6 (AP)—Death Valley Scotty is dead, leaving behind the mystery of where he got the millions he spent so lavishly over the years.

The blue-eyed adventurer, California's most famous prospector since the Gold Rush, died last night in the three-million-dollar castle he built. The legendary old desert rat, subject of many gold-strike tales, succumbed at 81 to a gastrointestinal hemorrhage (bleeding in stomach and intestines).

In 1905 Scotty, whose real name was Walter Scott, climbed off a mule at Brawley, Calif., peeled yellow-backed bills from an enormous roll and chartered a special train into Los Angeles.

To gaping Southern Californians awed by his free spending he explained: "Oh, I've got a hole in the ground out in Death Valley."

His Spanish-Moorish castle, a showplace at the north end of Death Valley, took five years to build.

Yet the only wealth he is known to have was that of his late friend and benefactor, Albert Mussey Johnson, Chicago insurance executive. Johnson maintained Scotty in style.

Johnson, the castle's real owner, transferred the property to the Gospel Foundation of California when he died about six years ago. But he provided that Scotty could live there the rest of his life.

Millions Reportedly Pledged ILA By Lewis

NEW YORK, Jan 6 (AP)—John L. Lewis, the old giant of independent trade unionism, reportedly has promised millions of dollars if necessary as a strike fund for the embattled International Longshoremen's Assn. (ind.)

ILA President William V. Bradley happily announced today that Lewis poured an added $50,000 into the union's coffers yesterday for the second time in recent weeks "and promised to back us all the way, regardless of what it was."

"It might be five million dollars," Bradley added. "He promised me all the support we needed."

However, a rival AFL dock union took a dim view of Lewis' handouts and an official said:

"Any money that is going to the old ILA is going into the pockets of the mob."

Meanwhile, a threatened Friday strike of three small locals of ILA specialists was averted during the day with an agreement on a health insurance plan. Weighers, scalesmen and samplers had threatened picket lines which could have tied up the whole East Coast if respected by longshoremen.

The ILA also has threatened a general waterfront strike if the National Labor Relations Board upsets a recent bargaining election among New York's 22,000 dock workers.

The ILA led the balloting by 1,492 votes—but 4,397 additional challenged ballots could conceivably reverse the outcome in favor of the rival AFL. The challenged votes still are under consideration.

The AFL and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, both seeking a review of the election by the NLRB, have charged coercion of longshoremen by waterfront mobsters working for the ILA.

Unidentified Fighter Fires On British Plane

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Yugoslav government said tonight an unidentified fighter plane fired on a British aircraft last Thursday near Yugoslavia's northern border with Hungary.

The British plane escaped undamaged and the unidentified plane sped away, the report said. The incident occurred near Maribor.

State Purchases Potomac Bridge At Williamsport

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 6 (AP)—Louis J. O'Donnell, chief administrative officer of the toll facilities of the State Roads Commission, announced today Maryland had bought the privately-owned toll bridge at Williamsport.

O'Donnell said the purchase price was about $900,000. But, since the state is credited with about $150,000 in surplus funds of the company owning the bridge, the actual cost will run around $750,000.

The stock was purchased from the Washington and Berkeley Bridge Co. and the state will assume operation of the bridge as of midnight Jan. 7.

Since the bridge was built, it has been operated by a private company. The state disclosed that toll fares will be lowered from 15 to 10 cents.

The span crosses the Potomac River at Williamsport and carries Rt. 11 traffic. The new rates will mean an over-all reduction of from 20 to 25 per cent of revenue from the bridge. The state also plans to propose a new classification for vehicles. There have been 25 different classifications under private ownership, but O'Donnell said the state plans to cut this number to seven.

The toll facilities officer said present figures indicate that the state will be able to pay off the cost of the bridge in about four years. The span will then be free to the public.

First Contract Is Let For Ft. Meade Project

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — The first contract for a national security agency installation at Ft. Meade, Md., that could cost as much as 30 million dollars has been awarded to Victor R. Beauchamp, Inc., of Washington.

Col. Reginald Whitaker, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers in Baltimore, who announced the award said the Washington firm will install utilities for the project for $1,121,528.

Batchelor Tells Folks He's Coming Home; Dad Says "Cycle Complete"

KERMIT, Tex., Jan. 6 (AP)—Cpl. Claude Batchelor telegraphed his folks today that he was well and coming home.

"I guess now the cycle is complete," said his father, Ollie Batchelor.

The corporal, a prisoner of war in Korea who first decided to remain with the Communists and then changed his mind, said:

"Dear mom and all, I'm on the right side of the Bamboo Curtain. Feel like a new man already. Don't, don't worry. Looking forward to seeing you soon. Have missed you terribly. Love to all at home. Claude."

Holdup Man Gets Diapers--In Face

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP)—Eugene Maurice hurled a pile of diapers into the face of a holdup man last night, but the infant toggery was no match for the hammer the thug was carrying.

Maurice and another employe of a Baltimore diaper service, Edward Folger, were closing up shop when two men approached them just as they were leaving the diaper laundry shop.

Maurice had a bag containing $900 in cash and $535 in checks in one hand a pile of diapers in the other. The money was intended for a night depository and the diapers for Maurice's baby at home.

The laundryman hurled the diapers at one of the thugs and fled. The holdup man disentangled himself from the diapers and pursued Maurice while thug No. 2 menaced Folger.

The thug caught up with Maurice, felled him with a blow from a hammer, picked up the bag and with his companion sped away.

1,000 Chirping Chicks Enliven Farm Session

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — The chirping of nearly 1,000 chicks enlivened the atmosphere of a downtown hotel today as the Maryland Farm Bureau and affiliated organizations opened their annual convention here.

The chicks were on display in the lobby while their owners, members of the Maryland Poultry Council, met to discuss trends in their business.

Byrd To Open Baltimore Headquarters Monday

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP)—Dr. H. C. Byrd announced tonight he will open headquarters here Monday in his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

It was his first unsolicited political announcement since he joined the race against George P. Mahoney, Baltimore contractor and former state racing commissioner making his third bid for office.

Tin Heiress, Lover Appeal To Court For Right To Wed

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Jan. 6 (AP)—Runaway Bolivian heiress Maria Isabella Patino, 18, and her dashing English lover, Jimmy Goldsmith, 20, appealed to Scotland's highest court today for the right to marry over her father's objections.

The showdown is due in the shadowy greystone Court of Session here tomorrow.

Three Scottish judges will be asked to rule "yes" or "no" to the young sweethearts' appeal against a temporary injunction tin magnate Atenor Patino obtained yesterday to block their quickie Scottish wedding.

Isabela and Jimmy are still hiding out from her irate father somewhere in Scotland and may not appear in person when R. P. Morison, one of Scotland's leading lawyers, pleads their case.

He is dead set against his pretty daughter's marriage until she grows a little older.

But Goldsmith's older brother, Edward, who introduced him to Isabela at a coronation party in London last June, told reporters there are other reasons for the objections from Mr. and Mrs. Patino.

They had six suitors of French royal blood all lined up to marry Isabela, he said, explaining that Isabela's mother is a descendant of King Louis XIV of France.

Silk Mill Entrance Blocked By Pickets

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 6 (AP)—Sheriff's officers said more than 100 persons gathered at the strike-bound Federal Silk Mills plant today, blocking the entrance.

Deputy Sheriff Leister Isanogle said he and two other deputies went to the plant but there were too many pickets for sheriff's officers to patrol.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Allen H. Mumma said the sheriff's office asked aid from state police in halting the blocking of the plant's entrance.

The company employs about 400 but Dec. 27 most of these walked out. Their spokesman said it was because the company didn't pay a Christmas bonus and that union recognition was involved. David Goetz, plant owner, said the company couldn't afford a bonus and ordered workers to come back by Jan. 4 or be fired. About 35 showed up.

Trip To Drive-In Ends In Tragedy

ROANOKE, Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—Luther Tucker, 29, his wife, Louise, 27, and their 8-year-old son, Luther Jr., settled down in the family car at the drive-in last night to see a slam-bang double feature billed as "new screen violence."

Mrs. Tucker, fumbling in the glove compartment for an opener to snap the caps from some soft drinks, found a gun she said she thought was unloaded. Playfully she pushed it against her husband's side and said "I'll shoot you." The gun went off.

The husband slid from behind the wheel and stumbled a few feet before he fell, seriously wounded in the side. Mrs. Tucker ran to the ticket booth and cried: "I've shot my husband."

That's the account she gave police. And Luther Jr., said it happened the way mama said it did.

Berlin To Be Off-Limits During Big Four Talks

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (AP)—The U.S. Command said today Berlin will be off-limits to American military personnel and civilian government employes for the forthcoming four-power conference of foreign ministers because there will be no room.

Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Timberman, U.S. commander, said travel by servicemen, Army and State Department workers into Berlin on other than official business would be stopped for an indefinite period beginning Jan. 21.

The conference opens four days later.

Nehru Ends 'Blitz' Tour

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 6 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru returned to New Delhi today from a week's "peace blitz" tour in which he attacked reported negotiations for U. S. arms aid to Pakistan and said India doesn't want military help from anybody.

'Bobo' Doesn't Seek 10 Million

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) — Barbara Sears (Bobo) Rockefeller said today that talk of a 10 million dollar demand on her estranged husband is "real nonsense."

An attorney for Winthrop Rockefeller, her multimillionaire husband, said in Little Rock, Ark., yesterday that Bobo repudiated a 5½ million dollar settlement reached last October and set her sights on twice that much. Despite her denial, the Rockefeller lawyers stood on the statement today.

"Contrary to reports," Mrs. Rockefeller said in a statement, "a settlement has not been rejected."

She contends the 5½ million offer is full of loopholes, whereby Rockefeller could cut off her financial aid whenever he wished.

Bobo, daughter of a coal miner, married the scion of oil millions in 1948 in what was hailed at the time as a Cinderella marriage. However, they separated the next year. They are parents of a 4-year-old son, Wintrhop Paul Rockefeller.

Rockefeller's attorney, Edwin Dunaway, in claiming that Bobo is demanding 10 millions, said:

"There is no apparent way of meeting Mrs. Rockefeller's insatiable demands."

"Any money that is going to the old ILA is going into the pockets of the mob."

Meanwhile, a threatened Friday strike of three small locals of ILA specialists was averted during the day with an agreement on a health insurance plan. Weighers, scalesmen and samplers had threatened picket lines which could have tied up the whole East Coast if respected by longshoremen.

The ILA also has threatened a general waterfront strike if the National Labor Relations Board upsets a recent bargaining election among New York's 22,000 dock workers.

The ILA led the balloting by 1,492 votes—but 4,397 additional challenged ballots could conceivably reverse the outcome in favor of the rival AFL. The challenged votes still are under consideration.

The AFL and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, both seeking a review of the election by the NLRB, have charged coercion of longshoremen by waterfront mobsters working for the ILA.

Unidentified Fighter Fires On British Plane

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Yugoslav government said tonight an unidentified fighter plane fired on a British aircraft last Thursday near Yugoslavia's northern border with Hungary.

The British plane escaped undamaged and the unidentified plane sped away, the report said. The incident occurred near Maribor.

State Purchases Potomac Bridge At Williamsport

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 6 (AP)—Louis J. O'Donnell, chief administrative officer of the toll facilities of the State Roads Commission, announced today Maryland had bought the privately-owned toll bridge at Williamsport.

O'Donnell said the purchase price was about $900,000. But, since the state is credited with about $150,000 in surplus funds of the company owning the bridge, the actual cost will run around $750,000.

The stock was purchased from the Washington and Berkeley Bridge Co. and the state will assume operation of the bridge as of midnight Jan. 7.

Since the bridge was built, it has been operated by a private company. The state disclosed that toll fares will be lowered from 15 to 10 cents.

The span crosses the Potomac River at Williamsport and carries Rt. 11 traffic. The new rates will mean an over-all reduction of from 20 to 25 per cent of revenue from the bridge. The state also plans to propose a new classification for vehicles. There have been 25 different classifications under private ownership, but O'Donnell said the state plans to cut this number to seven.

The toll facilities officer said present figures indicate that the state will be able to pay off the cost of the bridge in about four years. The span will then be free to the public.

First Contract Is Let For Ft. Meade Project

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — The first contract for a national security agency installation at Ft. Meade, Md., that could cost as much as 30 million dollars has been awarded to Victor R. Beauchamp, Inc., of Washington.

Col. Reginald Whitaker, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers in Baltimore, who announced the award said the Washington firm will install utilities for the project for $1,121,528.

Batchelor Tells Folks He's Coming Home; Dad Says "Cycle Complete"

KERMIT, Tex., Jan. 6 (AP)—Cpl. Claude Batchelor telegraphed his folks today that he was well and coming home.

"I guess now the cycle is complete," said his father, Ollie Batchelor.

The corporal, a prisoner of war in Korea who first decided to remain with the Communists and then changed his mind, said:

"Dear mom and all, I'm on the right side of the Bamboo Curtain. Feel like a new man already. Don't, don't worry. Looking forward to seeing you soon. Have missed you terribly. Love to all at home. Claude."

Holdup Man Gets Diapers--In Face

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP)—Eugene Maurice hurled a pile of diapers into the face of a holdup man last night, but the infant toggery was no match for the hammer the thug was carrying.

Maurice and another employe of a Baltimore diaper service, Edward Folger, were closing up shop when two men approached them just as they were leaving the diaper laundry shop.

Maurice had a bag containing $900 in cash and $535 in checks in one hand a pile of diapers in the other. The money was intended for a night depository and the diapers for Maurice's baby at home.

The laundryman hurled the diapers at one of the thugs and fled. The holdup man disentangled himself from the diapers and pursued Maurice while thug No. 2 menaced Folger.

The thug caught up with Maurice, felled him with a blow from a hammer, picked up the bag and with his companion sped away.

The two were nabbed later through the combined efforts of citizens of the neighborhood and police.

1,000 Chirping Chicks Enliven Farm Session

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — The chirping of nearly 1,000 chicks enlivened the atmosphere of a downtown hotel today as the Maryland Farm Bureau and affiliated organizations opened their annual convention here.

The chicks were on display in the lobby while their owners, members of the Maryland Poultry Council, met to discuss trends in their business.

Byrd To Open Baltimore Headquarters Monday

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP)—Dr. H. C. Byrd announced tonight he will open headquarters here Monday in his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

It was his first unsolicited political announcement since he joined the race against George P. Mahoney, Baltimore contractor and former state racing commissioner making his third bid for office.

Tin Heiress, Lover Appeal To Court For Right To Wed

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Jan. 6 (AP)—Runaway Bolivian heiress Maria Isabella Patino, 18, and her dashing English lover, Jimmy Goldsmith, 20, appealed to Scotland's highest court today for the right to marry over her father's objections.

The showdown is due in the shadowy greystone Court of Session here tomorrow.

Three Scottish judges will be asked to rule "yes" or "no" to the young sweethearts' appeal against a temporary injunction tin magnate Atenor Patino obtained yesterday to block their quickie Scottish wedding.

Isabela and Jimmy are still hiding out from her irate father somewhere in Scotland and may not appear in person when R. P. Morison, one of Scotland's leading lawyers, pleads their case.

He is dead set against his pretty daughter's marriage until she grows a little older.

But Goldsmith's older brother, Edward, who introduced him to Isabela at a coronation party in London last June, told reporters there are other reasons for the objections from Mr. and Mrs. Patino.

They had six suitors of French royal blood all lined up to marry Isabela, he said, explaining that Isabela's mother is a descendant of King Louis XIV of France.

Silk Mill Entrance Blocked By Pickets

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 6 (AP)—Sheriff's officers said more than 100 persons gathered at the strike-bound Federal Silk Mills plant today, blocking the entrance.

Deputy Sheriff Leister Isanogle said he and two other deputies went to the plant but there were too many pickets for sheriff's officers to patrol.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Allen H. Mumma said the sheriff's office asked aid from state police in halting the blocking of the plant's entrance.

The company employs about 400 but Dec. 27 most of these walked out. Their spokesman said it was because the company didn't pay a Christmas bonus and that union recognition was involved. David Goetz, plant owner, said the company couldn't afford a bonus and ordered workers to come back by Jan. 4 or be fired. About 35 showed up.

Trip To Drive-In Ends In Tragedy

ROANOKE, Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—Luther Tucker, 29, his wife, Louise, 27, and their 8-year-old son, Luther Jr., settled down in the family car at the drive-in last night to see a slam-bang double feature billed as "new screen violence."

Mrs. Tucker, fumbling in the glove compartment for an opener to snap the caps from some soft drinks, found a gun she said she thought was unloaded. Playfully she pushed it against her husband's side and said "I'll shoot you." The gun went off.

The husband slid from behind the wheel and stumbled a few feet before he fell, seriously wounded in the side. Mrs. Tucker ran to the ticket booth and cried: "I've shot my husband."

That's the account she gave police. And Luther Jr., said it happened the way mama said it did.

Berlin To Be Off-Limits During Big Four Talks

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (AP)—The U.S. Command said today Berlin will be off-limits to American military personnel and civilian government employes for the forthcoming four-power conference of foreign ministers because there will be no room.

Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Timberman, U.S. commander, said travel by servicemen, Army and State Department workers into Berlin on other than official business would be stopped for an indefinite period beginning Jan. 21.

The conference opens four days later.

Nehru Ends 'Blitz' Tour

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 6 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru returned to New Delhi today from a week's "peace blitz" tour in which he attacked reported negotiations for U. S. arms aid to Pakistan and said India doesn't want military help from anybody.

'Bobo' Doesn't Seek 10 Million

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) — Barbara Sears (Bobo) Rockefeller said today that talk of a 10 million dollar demand on her estranged husband is "real nonsense."

An attorney for Winthrop Rockefeller, her multimillionaire husband, said in Little Rock, Ark., yesterday that Bobo repudiated a 5½ million dollar settlement reached last October and set her sights on twice that much. Despite her denial, the Rockefeller lawyers stood on the statement today.

"Contrary to reports," Mrs. Rockefeller said in a statement, "a settlement has not been rejected."

She contends the 5½ million offer is full of loopholes, whereby Rockefeller could cut off her financial aid whenever he wished.

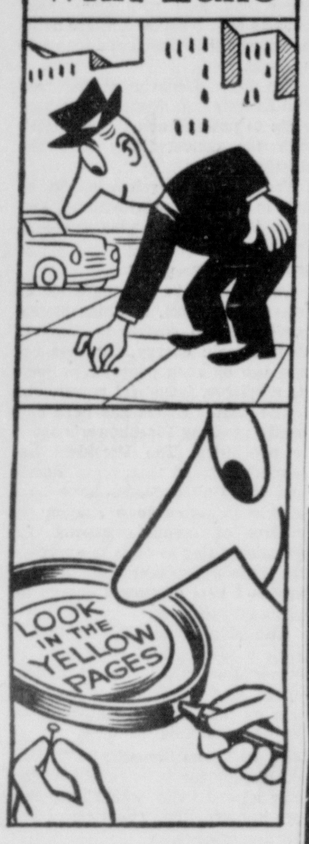

Bobo, daughter of a coal miner, married the scion of oil millions in 1948 in what was hailed at the time as a Cinderella marriage. However, they separated the next year. They are parents of a 4-year-old son, Wintrhop Paul Rockefeller.

Rockefeller's attorney, Edwin Dunaway, in claiming that Bobo is demanding 10 millions, said:

"There is no apparent way of meeting Mrs. Rockefeller's insatiable demands."

County Fails To Meet Blood Quota

The fear that Allegany county would be forced to drop from the free blood program sponsored by the Red Cross was expressed yesterday morning by county chapter officials.

It was noted that the 150-pint quota for both county stops was not met either here or in Westernport. There were 101 productive pints processed here Monday and only 58½ pints Tuesday at Westernport.

The failure of residents of the Westernport section to come close to the quota was attributed to an epidemic of colds in that area, officials pointed out. Many of the 150 persons who were scheduled to donate blood had to cancel their appointments, it was stated.

The county also failed to meet its quota last month when the bloodmobile visited Cumberland and Frostburg.

Officials pointed out that failure of the county to meet its quota—150 productive pints per visit means that the difference must be met by the other 29 chapters in the Johnstown (Pa.) Regional Headquarters. This drain on any reserve in other chapters cannot be maintained, Red Cross officials said, and if county residents wish to keep the benefits of the program they must make a better showing.

The next visits in Allegany county are scheduled February 1 at Lonaconing, and on the following day here. Persons wishing to volunteer can receive an appointment by calling the Red Cross office or be processed as a "walk-in" on the days of the visits. The mobile unit operates from noon to 6 p. m.

County Fails To Meet Blood Quota

The fear that Allegany county would be forced to drop from the free blood program sponsored by the Red Cross was expressed yesterday morning by county chapter officials.

It was noted that the 150-pint quota for both county stops was not met either here or in Westernport. There were 101 productive pints processed here Monday and only 58½ pints Tuesday at Westernport.

The failure of residents of the Westernport section to come close to the quota was attributed to an epidemic of colds in that area, officials pointed out. Many of the 150 persons who were scheduled to donate blood had to cancel their appointments, it was stated.

The county also failed to meet its quota last month when the bloodmobile visited Cumberland and Frostburg.

Officials pointed out that failure of the county to meet its quota—150 productive pints per visit means that the difference must be met by the other 29 chapters in the Johnstown (Pa.) Regional Headquarters. This drain on any reserve in other chapters cannot be maintained, Red Cross officials said, and if county residents wish to keep the benefits of the program they must make a better showing.

The next visits in Allegany county are scheduled February 1 at Lonaconing, and on the following day here. Persons wishing to volunteer can receive an appointment by calling the Red Cross office or be processed as a "walk-in" on the days of the visits. The mobile unit operates from noon to 6 p. m.

There Socrates Stood

The place where Socrates stood trial more than 23 centuries ago—to be found guilty and condemned to death but thereby to become one of the great martyrs of all time — has been uncovered by the archaeologists.

Last summer Dr. Homer A. Thompson, professor of classical archaeology at the Institute for Advanced study at Princeton, N. J., directed excavations that cleared away the dust of thousands of years and exposed the floor of the great court building that once stood in the Agora at Athens.

Dr. Thompson described the court building the other day in addressing the Archaeological Institute of America at New York City. It was on the south side of the Agora, which was the center of the political, social and artistic life of Athens. In the evening the shadow of the Acropolis fell upon it but during the day the sun shone on those assembled there.

The imposing room measured 93 by 106 feet. It was open to the sky so that the gods could look down upon and hear the accusers and the accused.

In ancient Athens the deal of justice was respected. Socrates had to be given a fair trial where he could face his accusers and present evidence in his defense. To convict required a majority of the jury, made up of hundreds of citizens who heard the testimony and the arguments. If he had wished, he might have escaped conviction and surely could have escaped the death penalty.

Socrates refused to try to do either. Instead, he sharpened the issue by insisting that far from corrupting the youth of Athens or introducing false gods he was a public benefactor who should eat at the public table. Later, when he could have fled into exile, he refused on the ground that the trial had been legal and it was a citizen's duty to accept the verdict.

The judgment of history is that Socrates was indeed a public benefactor and his enemies were the enemies of Athens, of civilization, of mankind.

After more than 2,300 years, it is his name the world honors. It should give any thoughtful tourist a lift of the heart to stand on that floor where he stood, serenely, to uphold truth as his clear eyes saw it, well knowing that for this his life would be demanded of him.

East Of Siam

Totalitarian regimes, as at Pearl Harbor, try to lull the defenders' vigilance by talking earnestly about peace while their preparations are being made. The new Communist offensive in Indo-China runs true to form.

Several times in recent weeks Ho Chi-minh's Viet-minh forces have expressed a desire for a negotiated peace in Indo-China, according to Red broadcasts. The French, weary, anemic and undermined by communism, showed interest in these vague and unofficial announcements. So did representatives of the native states, with whom France has been trying to work out arrangements for more autonomy.

But now the Vietminh have struck hard through Laos across the 100-mile waist of Indo-China, in a drive aimed at cutting the dumbbell-shaped territory in two at a point where it is narrower than the Florida peninsula. The strict military value is limited. As General Navarre pointed out, the Tonkin delta farther north is the only area in which a Vietminh military victory could be decisive.

But the Vietminh do not need a formal military victory if they can continue the war of attrition until France cries quits. It is the French who need the encouragement of a decisive military victory. Whether the Communists' main objective is Thailand, or Siam—the one independent country in Southeast Asia where Communist forces have not been active, they are a serious threat to orderly government east of Thailand.

The whole food-surplus area is a prime target of Chinese communism. A foothold in Thailand would enhance their capacity to make trouble.

This may be why the drive into Laos was in considerably greater force than the French expected, and has consequently had greater success. Meanwhile it is evident that the Reds are allowing themselves plenty of time. The rainy season does not start until May.

Airmail Freight Bill

Sometimes a not-so-gentle hint is effective in achieving economy in government. Postmaster General Summerfield, who is whittling away on the department's staggering deficit, recently announced that beginning January 1 airmail business on competitive routes would go to the lowest bidders.

The "Big Four" airlines—which could survive without carrying any mail—made no change in the rate they all charged, 45 cents a ton mile. But the six next biggest lines acted with alacrity. They told the Civil Aeronautics Board they had decided to cut their 53-cent rate to 45 cents.

The CAB has a responsibility to see that airlines receive sufficient federal support as mail carriers to keep the airmail going through. But the agency is likely to approve the requested cut. It would not want the Big Four to grab all the competitive business.

Where the CAB and the Post Office Department may do some sparring is over the matter of rates allowed the smaller airlines that depend on airmail for survival. Two of these outfits collect a rate of $2.58 a ton mile. Can such a difference in rates be justified?

This is a question that will be thoroughly thrashed out in the reopened study of rates and subsidy for airmail.

Don't Be A Statistic

The science of the collection and the classification of facts is wonderful, but look where it leads:

At a time when the nation is told that the automobile accident ratio to the number of miles traveled is the lowest ever, it is also revealed that 38,000 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in the U. S. last year.

At a time when planes seem to be crashing all around, and when more lives seem to be lost than ever, it is asserted that if a baby born in a scheduled airliner could continue in flight indefinitely, he would be 78 before he was due for a fatal plane accident.

This is all very fine but John Q. Public is understandably becoming wary of statistics. For suddenly he might become one himself. And who wants to be a statistic?

Sensible Use Of Barbiturates

Sleeping powders (barbiturates) are among the most maligned drugs on the market. They often are referred to as devil's capsules, dope, and goof pills because users become so dependent upon the sedative effect they cannot sleep without them. Larger amounts are poisonous, a fact well known to those with suicidal tendencies.

But the good effects outweigh the bad. The barbiturates often are a blessing when employed properly; they have tided many dejected and harassed persons over a difficult period. At least once a week, most physicians are consulted by hypertensive patients whose blood pressure has skyrocketed suddenly. These persons are advised to remain in bed for two or three days and sedatives are prescribed to keep them quiet and induce sleep. The same treatment is given the individual who presents all the indications of an impending heart attack. Here the drug proves life saving.

The barbiturates are valuable in various nervous disorders such as epilepsy, and small doses help allay the apprehension associated with high blood pressure, angina pectoris, dizziness, or abdominal distress. The advisability of using these pills or capsules in insomnia is the $64 question. They are not to be prescribed for ordinary sleeplessness, especially when health is not at stake or nothing of importance is to be done on the following day. On the other hand, there is no medical evidence to show that physical or emotional dependence occurs when barbiturates are taken in their usual recommended dosage. Furthermore, medical proof is lacking that small amounts over a long period have an adverse influence upon the body. For this reason they may be useful in insomnia when the cause cannot be corrected.

During a busy session, for example, some business men, labor leaders, or politicians are better off taking a sedative than lying awake all night thinking of the events of the day and what will happen on the morrow. Those who are able to shut off their thoughts for a sort time are fortunate, but too few of us can do this. A poor night adds to the strain of the next day which, in my opinion, does far more harm to the system than the worst effects of a sleeping pill.

But the danger of the barbiturates stems from the mental rather than the physical effects. The neurotic, psychopathic, or maladjusted individual always runs the risk of becoming addicted. Studies have shown that habituation occurs more frequently in patients with emotional instability, the individuals who cannot sleep because they are nervous or upset unnecessarily. There are no deaths in the family, no important business deals, no national politics at stake; the home presents no unusual problems and the children are healthy and doing well at school. This group may have trouble with sedatives because they afford a means of escaping reality. They give the barbiturates a bad name and the wise physician usually refuses to order the drug for them.

Disunited They Stand

We're a truffle late with the result of the French election. But so were the French.

It's important that America has a sympatico presidente on the Seine. We don't want the borrowing value of our money to depreciate.

The presidente is elected on a platform and not a balcony.

He has no more power than a bicycle on a hill. The election immobilizes him like a locust stung by a wasp.

He goes into the Maison Blanc for a seven-year stretch. His home is the museum of the grand ballot.

For seven years he consults on national affairs. His advisor is percent. His spokesman is a rubber stamp.

Ike's Mysterious Conversation With Bolivian Ambassador Was About Golf; U. S. Military Worried Over Proposed Use Of A-Bombs In Korean Strategy

WASHINGTON — At a recent White House dinner for the diplomatic corps, ambassadors were curious over an animated conversation between President Eisenhower and Bolivian Ambassador Victor Andrade. The President huddled with Andrade longer than with any other diplomat.

Ambassador Andrade represents a country with plenty of problems, though many of them have been ironed out, thanks to his own astute diplomacy. However, Bolivia is still being wooed by Dictator Peron and troubled by some Communist agitators; so there was a lot of speculation among envoys as to what the two men talked about—especially when Andrade remained mysteriously mum.

However, the subject of their conversation was—golf.

The Bolivian ambassador, who plays in about the same 80-to-90 scoring range as the President, but plays at the Chevy Chase club, not Burning Tree, was asked whether he had ever played with Gen. Frank Allen, former commander of the 3rd Armored Division and European public relations chief for Ike during the war—a member of Chevy Chase.

Then the President quizzed Andrade about golf in the upper altitudes of La Paz, capital of Bolivia. One golf course in La Paz is about 14,000 feet above sea level. And in that rarefied atmosphere, the ambassador explained, the ball goes much farther. He said he had sometimes driven 400 yards on a shot which would have been around 250 yards in the U.S.A.

And that was what had other diplomats buzzing at the White House dinner.

Troops Out Of Korea

The order to withdraw 21,000 U. S. troops from Korea caused some backstage bitterness in the Pentagon, but is one of the most important policy steps the United States has ever taken in regard to future war.

It completely reverses the old State Department-Pentagon policy against using the atom bomb. It also marks the beginning of American reliance on atom bombs instead of land armies.

Hitherto, Secretary of State Acheson was dead opposed to using the A-bomb in Korea or in neighboring China. So was Gen. Omar Bradley and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. So also were our Western allies. And when President Truman once let drop in a press conference the idea that he was even considering the use of the A-bomb in Korea, Clement Attlee, prime minister of England, came rushing across the Atlantic to stop him.

Today, however, it is Secretary of State Dulles and the civilian chiefs of the Defense Department who have reversed this policy.

U. S. military leaders are decidedly doubtful. Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has held a private debate with Secretary Dulles, arguing that if it becomes necessary to stop aggression we should try to confine ourselves to little, limited wars. We should not let war spread.

This is a reversal of position for Admiral Radford. Now in the No. 1 military spot of the nation, Admiral Radford of late has been arguing for "conventional weapons" and for outlawing the atom bomb.

Skeptical Ridgway

Gen. Matt Ridgway, Army chief of staff, and brilliant ex-commander in Korea, has been equally skeptical of the new policy. Privately he branded the withdrawal of two divisions from Korea as "politics." (The troops won't come home until next September or October.) And he is highly doubtful about substituting atomic warfare for ground troops.

What the military men privately ask is: "What are we going to do with baby atomic bombs if the enemy comes back with much larger atomic bombs? We now know that Moscow even has the hydrogen bomb. Once we start using baby atom bombs, how are we going to keep the enemy from using hydrogen bombs?"

This has always been pretty much the position of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It was only General MacArthur and the China bloc who wanted to use atomic weapons in the Far Eastern Theater.

However, Secretary of State Dulles, with Undersecretary of Defense Kyes, and to a lesser extent, Secretary of Defense Wilson, believe we should now concentrate on atomic strength and fast-striking forces. Their idea is to hit the source of aggression—which in the case of Korea would be China.

Revolutionary Change

Thus, though not announced in so many words, the Korean troop withdrawal is the most radical change of American military and foreign strategy since Eisenhower took office one years ago.

NOTE 1—General Ridgway was understandably so upset over the cuts Secretary of Defense Wilson ordered in the U. S. Army that he tried not to appear before the National Security Council where he would have to defend those cuts. When Ridgway tried to arrange a conflicting engagement, Wilson finally had to order him to be present and dutifully help chop down the Army budget.

NOTE 2—Secretary of the Army Stevens was less dutiful. He called on the President in person, urged that the Army not be cut so drastically. Eisenhower made no decision, told Stevens the matter would be decided by the National Security Council.

Washington Pipeline

While almost every other member of the Eisenhower cabinet has clamped the strictest censorship on news, John Foster Dulles has gone out of his way to release State Department information. He maintains that the public can't understand American foreign policy unless it gets full news about that policy . . . Congressman George Bender, Republican candidate to fill Bob Taft's shoes in Ohio, is given a better chance of winning than most people realized . . . The man who really runs Cleveland, Ohio, politics, and to some extent the state, is quiet-spoken, easygoing Louis Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press. Governor Lausche seldom makes an important political move without consulting Seltzer, once offered him the Taft vacancy in the Senate . . . Ex-Gov. Kerr Scott of North Carolina is a sure bet to be the next senator from that state. Even opponents agree that he made one of the best of recent North Carolina governors. (The name, by the way, is pronounced Karr. "Over in eastern North Carolina where I come from," says the ex-governor, "a cur is a yellow dog.")

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON, (INS)—The coming weeks and months will decide whether the victory of Gen. Eisenhower in the presidential race of a year ago was one of enduring substance or a sporadic political advance to positions quickly yielded.

The President's program has now been spelled out in general terms. The first of his series of requests to Congress has arrived on Capitol Hill. The road ahead is cobbled with danger for that program.

The balance of power is such in both houses of Congress that one good sneeze can jiggle the scales. Democrats have, in the main, recovered from their awe of Ike's avalanche-type victory in November of '52. And besides, there is no longer any political reason to pose to the folks back home as a fair-minded Democrat willing and eager to help the beloved hero-president get started. This is an election year back home, and a lot of congressmen are certain to feel that if they are too openly espoused to a Republican president's legislative efforts their Democratic colleagues back home will begin to get ideas.

The south today is probably as solid again as it was before Eisenhower's personality splintered it in 1952. Beyond the South there must be Democrats who backed Eisenhower on, say, the appointment of Chip Bohlen as ambassador to the U.S.S.R. who would not now go along with him to overcome the objection to Bohlen led by Sen. McCarthy. They'd say "let 'em fight it out like the cats of Kilkenny, and soon we'll have no opposition."

Republicans in Congress, and if you except Wayne Morse there are fewer of them in the Senate than Democrats, are perhaps less of a united force than are the Democrats. Adversity strengthens the bonds of allies; victory, as Sir Winston recently put it, enables friends to resume the follies that got them in trouble in the first place.

The President prides himself on the fact that he is a team man. He operated for 40-odd years on this belief as a military man: That the only way to win a battle or a war is with a coordinated team. In his political innocence he believed and may still believe that the same principal holds true in politics during periods of peace.

But it seems apparent now that the "team" is undergoing a traditional breakup into factions and to factions within factions. It seems equally apparent that Ike must be more than the quarterback of his dissolving team. He must be its passer and its line-plunging back. Up in the line he must open his own holes. Once clear, he must run his own interference.

In other words, he's back on his own again, Washington observers agree. Not since the days before Abilene has he been so called upon to come through as a triple-treat performer. If anything, it is a tough chore. Originally he had to reach the independent voter and the committed delegate. Then he had to pick up a national machine crown rusty and obsolescent and make it hum like something newer than new and beat a much more gifted phrase-maker.

Now he must reach and break to harness a Congress that is a tougher audience than any he has ever faced. It is a Congress where there will be opposition even in the partisan fold. Sen. McCarthy heads a group basically opposed to important facets of the Eisenhower foreign policy. Another group will battle against his proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley Act. There will be anti-Benson plan forces, no matter what the plan is.

Eisenhower has learned a lot during his year in office. He will need all of that knowledge to put over his program and explain that program successfully to the people. If he fails, he's almost certain to be faced by a hostile Congress in his last two years in the White House, as was Herbert Hoover in 1930. If he wins it's possible we'll have a Republican in the White House for several more terms, difficult as that is to believe by those millions who came to age in the 30's, 40's and early 50's.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Churchill Wept

PARIS

An incident of the Bermuda conference give sthe best clue to the present situatio nin Europe. This was the crucial exchange on the subject of the European Defense Community, which constituted the secret prelude of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' famous "agonizing reappraisal" press conference in Paris.

Sir Winston Churchill opened the discussion at Bermuda by voicing a familiar British view. As the world knows, the EDC was first proposed as a means of obtaining the German divisions which are needed to complete NATO, London has always cared very little about European federation, and has backed the EDC only to get the German divisions.

Therefore the prime minister, moved by reports from Paris that the French Parliament would not pass the EDC, suggested that there was no need to be rigid in dealing with the problem. What was needed, he said, was a good, stout Germa narmy, standing in the way of a Soviet attack on Western Europe. If the French did not like the EDC, he concluded, why not adopt the alternative of German national rearmament within the framework of NATO?

To Sir Winston's proposal, President Eisenhower replied with great firmness. In the first place, he said, the American government did not favor independent German national re-armament. In the second place, although the French might not feel much enthusiasm for EDC, he was convinced the prime minister's alternative would evoke even stronger opposition in the French Chamber of Deputies. In the third place, Germany's Chancellor Adenauer was also dead set against German national rearmament, since the "European" policy Adenauer has followed would soon be reversed by a reborn German general staff.

Dulles Adds Warning

Therefore the President concluded there was no alternative to the EDC. It was the EDC or nothing, as far as he was concerned.

To this statement by Eisenhower, Secretary Dulles added a warning. The American Congress was both convinced that Europe ought to unite, and quite certain the NATO structure could not be usefily completed without German divisions. The huge American outlays in Europe and the maintenance of a large American armed force in Western Europe were difficult to defend before the Congress, at the best of times.

The French had been pressing for guarantees that the American and British forces would remain in Europe for a very long period—up to 50 years. The French ought rather to be thinking of the danger of the American divisions being recalled fro mWestern Europe at a very early date. For if the Chamber of Deputies rejected the EDC, the Congress would altogether lose patience; and then, Dulles indicated, the withdrawal of the America nforces from Europe would have to be ordered.

At the next session, the British prime minister made his rejoinder to the American president and secretar yof state. Sir Winston began by saying that he had reflected carefully on what Eisenhower had said, and he had reached the conclusion that the President was justified in ruling out all alternatives to the EDC. For this reason, he wished to pray, to beseech the French government and its representatives to pass the EDC at all costs, in order to avoid the terrible cataclysms and catastrophes that would otherwise overtake the free world.

Churchill's Reaction Justified

As for his own future policy, Churchill continued, he would be forced to order the withdrawal of the British divisions from Europe the moment the American divisions began to move out. Britain, he said, with mounting emotion, had been forced once before to fight on in her islands, and Britain would do so again if need be. But he wanted no one to be under any misapprehensions as to the frightful consequences he foresaw, if the whole structure of European defense that had been so painfully built up were allowed to crumble into utter ruin for want of the keystone of the arch. And at this point, the old man wept at the conference table.

There were those who took Churchill's emotion and his tears as signs of the weakness of age. Yet by any sensible test, the prime minister's reaction was fully justified by the dangers that now lie ahead.

Maybe the policy announced by Eisenhower and Dulles at Bermuda, and reiterated by Dulles at his Paris press conference, is tinctured with bluff. Maybe the purpose is to get the French to act on EDC by "shock tactics." But if the shock tactics do not work, and the bluff is called, what then?

Even the ever-optimistic American embassy is currently only quoting even odds on the French Chamber passing the EDC. If the EDC does not pass, and the American administration carries out its threat, Western Europe will again be transformed into a military vacuum. And if that happens, the estimate of the future given by Churchill at Bermuda will shortly be substantiated by the remorseless march of events. Surely this prospect deserves as much attention from the American policy-makers as their undeniable difficulties with the Congress.

Movies And Maturity

The Motion Picture Code was devised in 1929 by Martin Quigley, adopted by the industry in 1930, and has since then served a very difficult consumers goods industry under the management of Joseph I. Breen. The code is designed to eliminate indecency from motion pictures. Its stamp of approval has usually been required for the exhibition of a picture in a regular theater.

Howard Hughes, who manages RKO, has twice challenged the authority of the Breen office. In both instances, his actress was Jane Russell. In the instance of "The Outlaw," he was brought to boot. In the matter of his current production, "French Line," he is fighting it out. "The Moon Is Blue" is another picture shown without the code's authority.

Sam Goldwyn, wise in the ways of his industry, has proposed that the code be "modernized." The assumption is that the American people are more mature and therefore can accept more sophistication than was true 25 years ago. As the principal attendants at movies are children and teen-agers, it is doubtful whether maturity and sophistication are very different today from 25 years ago.

This matter becomes increasingly important as more television pictures are manufactured by motion picture studios. That means that the performance comes right into the homes. It means a wrangle between parents and children over what the child may look at. Belly-dancers, who make sex ludicrous, are not particularly elevating to the young. This nation cannot afford the debasement of its children by any industry.

The big men in the motion picture industry realize what the problem is. They do not want the code to fail. It has been too valuable an asset to the motion picture industry. The difficulty is that they are beset by a rapidly rising number of so-called independents who must earn money swiftly if they are to survive.

Some of these companies import pictures from France and Italy that are disgraceful. It is no secret in the industry that a large number of Americans, writers, directors, producers, actors, driven out of Hollywood by the anti-Communist movement, have settled in Italy and France, where they are producing pictures for the American market. Some of these pictures ought not to be shown in this country for any reason whatsoever.

The Supreme Court decision separating the producing end of the industry from theater ownership was bad not only for the motion picture industry but for the United States. Now theater-owners are bound by no code except common sense, threats of police intervention for indecency, and fear of boycott. Before the separation, theaters could not show pictures which lacked the approval of the Breen office. Today anything goes. Decent companies face destructive competition by indecent companies. The danger is not only that immoral pictures will be shown but that Communists and fellow-travelers will return to Hollywood. This means real trouble.

Motion pictures and television are generally for children and teen-agers. Those who object to all forms of censorship are unrealistic. They themselves would not subject their children to the moral risks of indecent exposure and conduct. They themselves would not like to see their children teen-age delinquents, overwrought by stimuli which might result in permanent character damage.

The motion picture industry would prefer to police itself, but it is powerless under the new type of competition particularly from abroad. It is powerless without public support. As long as indecent pictures can make plenty of money, the industry is going to be disturbed and just as bad money drives out good, so vile pictures can drive out good.

Driven by stockholders, by bankers who hold mortgages on pictures, by the danger of going under, even the established companies will go in for so-called "mature" pictures. Then will come protests from parents, teachers, clergymen, public associations and the policing of this industry will come from outside.

Were only the principal companies involved, this problem could easily be solved. They would stand by the code. Nobody has yet improved on the Ten Commandments, even though that code is some 4,000 years old. The age of the code does not make it inadequate for today. What places the code in danger is that new, young, energetic companies want to make a fast dollar and pictures from Italy and France can flood this market with the moral equivalent of marijuana.

There Socrates Stood

The place where Socrates stood trial more than 23 centuries ago—to be found guilty and condemned to death but thereby to become one of the great martyrs of all time — has been uncovered by the archaeologists.

Last summer Dr. Homer A. Thompson, professor of classical archaeology at the Institute for Advanced study at Princeton, N. J., directed excavations that cleared away the dust of thousands of years and exposed the floor of the great court building that once stood in the Agora at Athens.

Dr. Thompson described the court building the other day in addressing the Archaeological Institute of America at New York City. It was on the south side of the Agora, which was the center of the political, social and artistic life of Athens. In the evening the shadow of the Acropolis fell upon it but during the day the sun shone on those assembled there.

The imposing room measured 93 by 106 feet. It was open to the sky so that the gods could look down upon and hear the accusers and the accused.

In ancient Athens the deal of justice was respected. Socrates had to be given a fair trial where he could face his accusers and present evidence in his defense. To convict required a majority of the jury, made up of hundreds of citizens who heard the testimony and the arguments. If he had wished, he might have escaped conviction and surely could have escaped the death penalty.

Socrates refused to try to do either. Instead, he sharpened the issue by insisting that far from corrupting the youth of Athens or introducing false gods he was a public benefactor who should eat at the public table. Later, when he could have fled into exile, he refused on the ground that the trial had been legal and it was a citizen's duty to accept the verdict.

The judgment of history is that Socrates was indeed a public benefactor and his enemies were the enemies of Athens, of civilization, of mankind.

After more than 2,300 years, it is his name the world honors. It should give any thoughtful tourist a lift of the heart to stand on that floor where he stood, serenely, to uphold truth as his clear eyes saw it, well knowing that for this his life would be demanded of him.

East Of Siam

Totalitarian regimes, as at Pearl Harbor, try to lull the defenders' vigilance by talking earnestly about peace while their preparations are being made. The new Communist offensive in Indo-China runs true to form.

Several times in recent weeks Ho Chi-minh's Vietminh forces have expressed a desire for a negotiated peace in Indo-China, according to Red broadcasts. The French, weary, anemic and undermined by communism, showed interest in these vague and unofficial announcements. So did representatives of the native states, with whom France has been trying to work out arrangements for more autonomy.

But now the Vietminh have struck hard through Laos across the 100-mile waist of Indo-China, in a drive aimed at cutting the dumbbell-shaped territory in two at a point where it is narrower than the Florida peninsula. The strict military value is limited. As General Navarre pointed out, the Tonkin delta farther north is the only area in which a Vietminh military victory could be decisive.

But the Vietminh do not need a formal military victory if they can continue the war of attrition until France cries quits. It is the French who need the encouragement of a decisive military victory. Whether the Communists' main objective is Thailand, or Siam—the one independent country in Southeast Asia where Communist forces have not been active, they are a serious threat to orderly government east of Thailand.

The whole food-surplus area is a prime target of Chinese communism. A foothold in Thailand would enhance their capacity to make trouble.

This may be why the drive into Laos was in considerably greater force than the French expected, and has consequently had greater success. Meanwhile it is evident that the Reds are allowing themselves plenty of time. The rainy season does not start until May.

Airmail Freight Bill

Sometimes a not-so-gentle hint is effective in achieving economy in government. Postmaster General Summerfield, who is whittling away on the department's staggering deficit, recently announced that beginning January 1 airmail business on competitive routes would go to the lowest bidders.

The "Big Four" airlines—which could survive without carrying any mail—made no change in the rate they all charged, 45 cents a ton mile. But the six next biggest lines acted with alacrity. They told the Civil Aeronautics Board they had decided to cut their 53-cent rate to 45 cents.

The CAB has a responsibility to see that airlines receive sufficient federal support as mail carriers to keep the airmail going through. But the agency is likely to approve the requested cut. It would not want the Big Four to grab all the competitive business.

Where the CAB and the Post Office Department may do some sparring is over the matter of rates allowed the smaller airlines that depend on airmail for survival. Two of these outfits collect a rate of $2.58 a ton mile. Can such a difference in rates be justified?

This is a question that will be thoroughly thrashed out in the reopened study of rates and subsidy for airmail.

Don't Be A Statistic

The science of the collection and the classification of facts is wonderful, but look where it leads:

At a time when the nation is told that the automobile accident ratio to the number of miles traveled is the lowest ever, it is also revealed that 38,000 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in the U. S. last year.

At a time when planes seem to be crashing all around, and when more lives seem to be lost than ever, it is asserted that if a baby born in a scheduled airliner could continue in flight indefinitely, he would be 78 before he was due for a fatal plane accident.

This is all very fine but John Q. Public is understandably becoming wary of statistics. For suddenly he might become one himself. And who wants to be a statistic?

Sensible Use Of Barbiturates

Sleeping powders (barbiturates) are among the most maligned drugs on the market. They often are referred to as devil's capsules, dope, and goof pills because users become so dependent upon the sedative effect they cannot sleep without them. Larger amounts are poisonous, a fact well known to those with suicidal tendencies.

But the good effects outweigh the bad. The barbiturates often are a blessing when employed properly; they have tided many dejected and harassed persons over a difficult period. At least once a week, most physicians are consulted by hypertensive patients whose blood pressure has skyrocketed suddenly. These persons are advised to remain in bed for two or three days and sedatives are prescribed to keep them quiet and induce sleep. The same treatment is given the individual who presents all the indications of an impending heart attack. Here the drug proves life saving.

The barbiturates are valuable in various nervous disorders such as epilepsy, and small doses help allay the apprehension associated with high blood pressure, angina pectoris, dizziness, or abdominal distress. The advisability of using these pills or capsules in insomnia is the $64 question. They are not to be prescribed for ordinary sleeplessness, especially when health is not at stake or nothing of importance is to be done on the following day. On the other hand, there is no medical evidence to show that physical or emotional dependence occurs when barbiturates are taken in their usual recommended dosage. Furthermore, medical proof is lacking that small amounts over a long period have an adverse influence upon the body. For this reason they may be useful in insomnia when the cause cannot be corrected.

During a busy session, for example, some business men, labor leaders, or politicians are better off taking a sedative than lying awake all night thinking of the events of the day and what will happen on the morrow. Those who are able to shut off their thoughts for a sort time are fortunate, but too few of us can do this. A poor night adds to the strain of the next day which, in my opinion, does far more harm to the system than the worst effects of a sleeping pill.

But the danger of the barbiturates stems from the mental rather than the physical effects. The neurotic, psychopathic, or maladjusted individual always runs the risk of becoming addicted. Studies have shown that habituation occurs more frequently in patients with emotional instability, the individuals who cannot sleep because they are nervous or upset unnecessarily. There are no deaths in the family, no important business deals, no national politics at stake; the home presents no unusual problems and the children are healthy and doing well at school. This group may have trouble with sedatives because they afford a means of escaping reality. They give the barbiturates a bad name and the wise physician usually refuses to order the drug for them.

Disunited They Stand

We're a truffle late with the result of the French election. But so were the French.

It's important that America has a sympatico presidente on the Seine. We don't want the borrowing value of our money to depreciate.

The presidente is elected on a platform and not a balcony.

He has no more power than a bicycle on a hill. The election immobilizes him like a locust stung by a wasp.

He goes into the Maison Blanc for a seven-year stretch. His home is the museum of the grand ballot.

For seven years he consults on national affairs. His advisor is percent. His spokesman is a rubber stamp.

After doing nothing for seven years he goes into retirement.

Ike's Mysterious Conversation With Bolivian Ambassador Was About Golf; U. S. Military Worried Over Proposed Use Of A-Bombs In Korean Strategy

WASHINGTON — At a recent White House dinner for the diplomatic corps, ambassadors were curious over an animated conversation between President Eisenhower and Bolivian Ambassador Victor Andrade. The President huddled with Andrade longer than with any other diplomat.

Ambassador Andrade represents a country with plenty of problems, though many of them have been ironed out, thanks to his own astute diplomacy. However, Bolivia is still being wooed by Dictator Peron and troubled by some Communist agitators; so there was a lot of speculation among envoys as to what the two men talked about—especially when Andrade remained mysteriously mum.

However, the subject of their conversation was—golf.

The Bolivian ambassador, who plays in about the same 80-to-90 scoring range as the President, but plays at the Chevy Chase club, not Burning Tree, was asked whether he had ever played with Gen. Frank Allen, former commander of the 3rd Armored Division and European public relations chief for Ike during the war—a member of Chevy Chase.

Then the President quizzed Andrade about golf in the upper altitudes of La Paz, capital of Bolivia. One golf course in La Paz is about 14,000 feet above sea level. And in that rarefied atmosphere, the ambassador explained, the ball goes much farther. He said he had sometimes driven 400 yards on a shot which would have been around 250 yards in the U.S.A.

And that was what had other diplomats buzzing at the White House dinner.

Troops Out Of Korea

The order to withdraw 21,000 U. S. troops from Korea caused some backstage bitterness in the Pentagon, but is one of the most important policy steps the United States has ever taken in regard to future war.

It completely reverses the old State Department-Pentagon policy against using the atom bomb. It also marks the beginning of American reliance on atom bombs instead of land armies.

Hitherto, Secretary of State Acheson was dead opposed to using the A-bomb in Korea or in neighboring China. So was Gen. Omar Bradley and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. So also were our Western allies. And when President Truman once let drop in a press conference the idea that he was even considering the use of the A-bomb in Korea, Clement Attlee, prime minister of England, came rushing across the Atlantic to stop him.

Today, however, it is Secretary of State Dulles and the civilian chiefs of the Defense Department who have reversed this policy.

U. S. military leaders are decidedly doubtful. Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has held a private debate with Secretary Dulles, arguing that if it becomes necessary to stop aggression we should try to confine ourselves to little, limited wars. We should not let war spread.

This is a reversal of position for Admiral Radford. Now in the No. 1 military spot of the nation, Admiral Radford of late has been arguing for "conventional weapons" and for outlawing the atom bomb.

Skeptical Ridgway

Gen. Matt Ridgway, Army chief of staff, and brilliant ex-commander in Korea, has been equally skeptical of the new policy. Privately he branded the withdrawal of two divisions from Korea as "politics." (The troops won't come home until next September or October.) And he is highly doubtful about substituting atomic warfare for ground troops.

What the military men privately ask is: "What are we going to do with baby atomic bombs if the enemy comes back with much larger atomic bombs? We now know that Moscow even has the hydrogen bomb. Once we start using baby atom bombs, how are we going to keep the enemy from using hydrogen bombs?"

This has always been pretty much the position of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It was only General MacArthur and the China bloc who wanted to use atomic weapons in the Far Eastern Theater.

However, Secretary of State Dulles, with Undersecretary of Defense Kyes, and to a lesser extent, Secretary of Defense Wilson, believe we should now concentrate on atomic strength and fast-striking forces. Their idea is to hit the source of aggression—which in the case of Korea would be China.

Revolutionary Change

Thus, though not announced in so many words, the Korean troop withdrawal is the most radical change of American military and foreign strategy since Eisenhower took office one years ago.

NOTE 1—General Ridgway was understandably so upset over the cuts Secretary of Defense Wilson ordered in the U. S. Army that he tried not to appear before the National Security Council where he would have to defend those cuts. When Ridgway tried to arrange a conflicting engagement, Wilson finally had to order him to be present and dutifully help chop down the Army budget.

NOTE 2—Secretary of the Army Stevens was less dutiful. He called on the President in person, urged that the Army not be cut so drastically. Eisenhower made no decision, told Stevens the matter would be decided by the National Security Council.

Washington Pipeline

While almost every other member of the Eisenhower cabinet has clamped the strictest censorship on news, John Foster Dulles has gone out of his way to release State Department information. He maintains that the public can't understand American foreign policy unless it gets full news about that policy . . . Congressman George Bender, Republican candidate to fill Bob Taft's shoes in Ohio, is given a better chance of winning than most people realized . . . The man who really runs Cleveland, Ohio, politics, and to some extent the state, is quiet-spoken, easygoing Louis Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press. Governor Lausche seldom makes an important political move without consulting Seltzer, once offered him the Taft vacancy in the Senate . . . Ex-Gov. Kerr Scott of North Carolina is a sure bet to be the next senator from that state. Even opponents agree that he made one of the best of recent North Carolina governors. (The name, by the way, is pronounced Karr. "Over in eastern North Carolina where I come from," says the ex-governor, "a cur is a yellow dog.")

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON, (INS)—The coming weeks and months will decide whether the victory of Gen. Eisenhower in the presidential race of a year ago was one of enduring substance or a sporadic political advance to positions quickly yielded.

The President's program has now been spelled out in general terms. The first of his series of requests to Congress has arrived on Capitol Hill. The road ahead is cobbled with danger for that program.

The balance of power is such in both houses of Congress that one good sneeze can jiggle the scales. Democrats have, in the main, recovered from their awe of Ike's avalanche-type victory in November of '52. And besides, there is no longer any political reason to pose to the folks back home as a fair-minded Democrat willing and eager to help the beloved hero-president get started. This is an election year back home, and a lot of congressmen are certain to feel that if they are too openly espoused to a Republican president's legislative efforts their Democratic colleagues back home will begin to get ideas.

The south today is probably as solid again as it was before Eisenhower's personality splintered it in 1952. Beyond the South there must be Democrats who backed Eisenhower on, say, the appointment of Chip Bohlen as ambassador to the U.S.S.R. who would not now go along with him to overcome the objection to Bohlen led by Sen. McCarthy. They'd say "let 'em fight it out like the cats of Kilkenny, and soon we'll have no opposition."

Republicans in Congress, and if you except Wayne Morse there are fewer of them in the Senate than Democrats, are perhaps less of a united force than are the Democrats. Adversity strengthens the bonds of allies; victory, as Sir Winston recently put it, enables friends to resume the follies that got them in trouble in the first place.

The President prides himself on the fact that he is a team man. He operated for 40-odd years on this belief as a military man: That the only way to win a battle or a war is with a coordinated team. In his political innocence he believed and may still believe that the same principal holds true in politics during periods of peace.

But it seems apparent now that the "team" is undergoing a traditional breakup into factions and to factions within factions. It seems equally apparent that Ike must be more than the quarterback of his dissolving team. He must be its passer and its line-plunging back. Up in the line he must open his own holes. Once clear, he must run his own interference.

In other words, he's back on his own again, Washington observers agree. Not since the days before Abilene has he been so called upon to come through as a triple-treat performer. If anything, it is a tough chore. Originally he had to reach the independent voter and the committed delegate. Then he had to pick up a national machine crown rusty and obsolescent and make it hum like something newer than new and beat a much more gifted phrase-maker.

Now he must reach and break to harness a Congress that is a tougher audience than any he has ever faced. It is a Congress where there will be opposition even in the partisan fold. Sen. McCarthy heads a group basically opposed to important facets of the Eisenhower foreign policy. Another group will battle against his proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley Act. There will be anti-Benson plan forces, no matter what the plan is.

Eisenhower has learned a lot during his year in office. He will need all of that knowledge to put over his program and explain that program successfully to the people. If he fails, he's almost certain to be faced by a hostile Congress in his last two years in the White House, as was Herbert Hoover in 1930. If he wins it's possible we'll have a Republican in the White House for several more terms, difficult as that is to believe by those millions who came to age in the 30's, 40's and early 50's.

Matter Of Fact

Churchill Wept

PARIS

An incident of the Bermuda conference give sthe best clue to the present situatio nin Europe. This was the crucial exchange on the subject of the European Defense Community, which constituted the secret prelude of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' famous "agonizing reappraisal" press conference in Paris.

Sir Winston Churchill opened the discussion at Bermuda by voicing a familiar British view. As the world knows, the EDC was first proposed as a means of obtaining the German divisions which are needed to complete NATO. London has always cared very little about European federation, and has backed the EDC only to get the German divisions.

Therefore the prime minister, moved by reports from Paris that the French Parliament would not pass the EDC, suggested that there was no need to be rigid in dealing with the problem. What was needed, he said, was a good, stout German narmy, standing in the way of a Soviet attack on Western Europe. If the French did not like the EDC, he concluded, why not adopt the alternative of German national rearmament within the framework of NATO?

To Sir Winston's proposal, President Eisenhower replied with great firmness. In the first place, he said, the American government did not favor independent German national re-armament. In the second place, although the French might not feel much enthusiasm for EDC, he was convinced the prime minister's alternative would evoke even stronger opposition in the French Chamber of Deputies. In the third place, Germany's Chancellor Adenauer was also dead set against German national rearmament, since the "European" policy Adenauer has followed would soon be reversed by a reborn German general staff.

Dulles Adds Warning

Therefore the President concluded there was no alternative to the EDC. It was the EDC or nothing, as far as he was concerned.

To this statement by Eisenhower, Secretary Dulles added a warning. The American Congress was both convinced that Europe ought to unite, and quite certain the NATO structure could not be usefily completed without German divisions. The huge American outlays in Europe and the maintenance of a large American armed force in Western Europe were difficult to defend before the Congress, at the best of times.

The French had been pressing for guarantees that the American and British forces would remain in Europe for a very long period—up to 50 years. The French ought rather to be thinking of the danger of the American divisions being recalled fro mWestern Europe at a very early date. For if the Chamber of Deputies rejected the EDC, the Congress would altogether lose patience; and then, Dulles indicated, the withdrawal of the America nforces from Europe would have to be ordered.

At the next session, the British prime minister made his rejoinder to the American president and secretar yof state. Sir Winston began by saying that he had reflected carefully on what Eisenhower had said, and he had reached the conclusion that the President was justified in ruling out all alternatives to the EDC. For this reason, he wished to pray, to beseech the French government and its representatives to pass the EDC at all costs, in order to avoid the terrible cataclysms and catastrophes that would otherwise overtake the free world.

Churchill's Reaction Justified

As for his own future policy, Churchill continued, he would be forced to order the withdrawal of the British divisions from Europe the moment the American divisions began to move out. Britain, he said, with mounting emotion, had been forced once before to fight on in her islands, and Britain would do so again if need be. But he wanted no one to be under any misapprehensions as to the frightful consequences he foresaw, if the whole structure of European defense that had been so painfully built up were allowed to crumble into utter ruin for want of the keystone of the arch. And at this point, the old man wept at the conference table.

There were those who took Churchill's emotion and his tears as signs of the weakness of age. Yet by any sensible test, the prime minister's reaction was fully justified by the dangers that now lie ahead.

Maybe the policy announced by Eisenhower and Dulles at Bermuda, and reiterated by Dulles at his Paris press conference, is tinctured with bluff. Maybe the purpose is to get the French to act on EDC by "shock tactics." But if the shock tactics do not work, and the bluff is called, what then?

Even the ever-optimistic American embassy is currently only quoting even odds on the French Chamber passing the EDC. If the EDC does not pass, and the American administration carries out its threat, Western Europe will again be transformed into a military vacuum. And if that happens, the estimate of the future given by Churchill at Bermuda will shortly be substantiated by the remorseless march of events. Surely this prospect deserves as much attention from the American policy-makers as their undeniable difficulties with the Congress.

Movies And Maturity

The Motion Picture Code was devised in 1929 by Martin Quigley, adopted by the industry in 1930, and has since then served a very difficult consumers goods industry under the management of Joseph I. Breen. The code is designed to eliminate indecency from motion pictures. Its stamp of approval has usually been required for the exhibition of a picture in a regular theater.

Howard Hughes, who manages RKO, has twice challenged the authority of the Breen office. In both instances, his actress was Jane Russell. In the instance of "The Outlaw," he was brought to boot. In the matter of his current production, "French Line," he is fighting it out. "The Moon Is Blue" is another picture shown without the code's authority.

Sam Goldwyn, wise in the ways of his industry, has proposed that the code be "modernized." The assumption is that the American people are more mature and therefore can accept more sophistication than was true 25 years ago. As the principal attendants at movies are children and teen-agers, it is doubtful whether maturity and sophistication are very different today from 25 years ago.

This matter becomes increasingly important as more television pictures are manufactured by motion picture studios. That means that the performance comes right into the homes. It means a wrangle between parents and children over what the child may look at. Belly-dancers, who make sex ludicrous, are not particularly elevating to the young. This nation cannot afford the debasement of its children by any industry.

The big men in the motion picture industry realize what the problem is. They do not want the code to fail. It has been too valuable an asset to the motion picture industry. The difficulty is that they are beset by a rapidly rising number of so-called independents who must earn money swiftly if they are to survive.

Some of these companies import pictures from France and Italy that are disgraceful. It is no secret in the industry that a large number of Americans, writers, directors, producers, actors, driven out of Hollywood by the anti-Communist movement, have settled in Italy and France, where they are producing pictures for the American market. Some of these pictures ought not to be shown in this country for any reason whatsoever.

The Supreme Court decision separating the producing end of the industry from theater ownership was bad not only for the motion picture industry but for the United States. Now theater-owners are bound by no code except common sense, threats of police intervention for indecency, and fear of boycott. Before the separation, theaters could not show pictures which lacked the approval of the Breen office. Today anything goes. Decent companies face destructive competition by indecent companies. The danger is not only that immoral pictures will be shown but that Communists and fellow-travelers will return to Hollywood. This means real trouble.

Motion pictures and television are generally for children and teen-agers. Those who object to all forms of censorship are unrealistic. They themselves would not subject their children to the moral risks of indecent exposure and conduct. They themselves would not like to see their children teen-age delinquents, overwrought by stimuli which might result in permanent character damage.

The motion picture industry would prefer to police itself, but it is powerless under the new type of competition particularly from abroad. It is powerless without public support. As long as indecent pictures can make plenty of money, the industry is going to be disturbed and just as bad money drives out good, so vile pictures can drive out good.

Driven by stockholders, by bankers who hold mortgages on pictures, by the danger of going under, even the established companies will go in for so-called "mature" pictures. Then will come protests from parents, teachers, clergymen, public associations and the policing of this industry will come from outside.

Were only the principal companies involved, this problem could easily be solved. They would stand by the code. Nobody has yet improved on the Ten Commandments, even though that code is some 4,000 years old. The age of the code does not make it inadequate for today. What places the code in danger is that new, young, energetic companies want to make a fast dollar and pictures from Italy and France can flood this market with the moral equivalent of marijuana.

Local Motorist Is Fined $250

Fines totaling $250 and costs were levied yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court against a driver accused of violating two state motor laws during a "wild chase" over local streets.

Convicted was Richard H. Schriver, 100 Auburn Avenue, who pleaded not guilty to charges of exceeding 70 miles an hour and reckless driving. He filed notice of an appeal and was freed under $500 bond.

Schriver was apprehended Sunday by city police. Arresting officers were unable to identify him as the driver during the pursuit.

Streets listed during the chase were Virginia and Laing avenues, South Street and Oldtown where authorities obtained the license plate numbers on the fleeing Cadillac.

Authorities said the car went through two stop signs and a red light while being clocked at 80 miles per hour. The driver failed to halt at the sound of a siren and forced two other vehicles to the sidewalk. The cruiser was unable to catch the other machine.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason heard testimony in the case.

Building Permits Show Decline In City

The number of building permits was light but estimated cost of construction in December exceeded that of the previous month, records of the building engineer show today.

Four permits were issued last month including three for additions and improvements and one for new construction. The new construction was estimated at $8,000 and others at $10,725, a total of $18,725.

Last November 10 permits were issued with an estimated expenditure of $12,630. The permits included four for new construction.

Three Injured As Car Drops Into Creek

Three young people suffered multiple injuries about 1 a. m. yesterday when their car plunged from Locust Grove bridge just off Route 40 in the Narrows and landed on its top in Wills Creek.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment and X-rays were:

The driver, Barth William Bennett, 17, son of Roscoe Bennett, LaVale, possible spine injury and leg abrasions.

Kenneth Carder, 18, son of William Carder, LaVale, laceration of the right hand and pain in the abdomen.

Erma Lee Wilmot, 18, daughter of John Wilmot, 213 Washington Street, abrasions and possible right knee injury. All were reported in "fair" condition.

State Trooper James F. Lewis, who investigated, said Bennett had just turned off the National Highway when the car hit a stretch of ice. The operator apparently stepped on the brake and the vehicle crashed through a guard rail, dropping about 30 feet to the creek bed.

Following the spectacular accident, the trio reportedly climbed from the wreckage and was taken to the hospital. Investigation is continuing.

Trooper Lewis said the top of the machine was submerged to the hood in approximately four feet of water. He pointed out that low water in the creek evidently saved the three from being trapped and drowned.

Police Will Testify In Tavern Case Here

Six members of the Cumberland Police Department were summoned Tuesday to appear before the Board of License Commissioners for Allegany County to testify concerning "considerable trouble" at a local tavern.

Slated to give testimony January 19 at 10 a. m. are Detective Leo E. P. Law and Officers John G. Powers, Kenneth W. Morrissey, Charles E. Cubbage, E. Gordon Hite and Carl L. Williams.

A notice served by Sheriff Edward M. Muir said the sextet will testify in connection with Lee's Tavern at 60 North Mechanic Street. The owner is Joseph Spinetta.

Last week Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn filed a complaint with the board against the tavern. In the past two months, he pointed out, authorities have had "considerable trouble" with the establishment.

Flynn added that there had been numerous fights in and outside the place, and asked the board to take necessary action to curb or eliminate the condition.

Health Group To Meet

The Cresaptown and Potomac Valley Lay Health Group will meet today at 1:30 p.m. in the school's health center. Workers will be assigned to monthly clinics and plans for the coming year will be made.

using bits of various colored woods. This he referred to as "inlaid scenery painting." He has prize ribbons from several county fairs where these were exhibited.

For a time, he turned to taxidermy as a hobby, but one day a friend offered to sell him his molds and materials for $35, and after buying the outfit, Henry became intrigued with plaster molding.

This hobby, as explained, has become a full-time operation.

Henry said he has experience in sales work, and after moving to Ridgeley from Hyndman, worked for several years as a wholesale drug and notion salesman. He maintains many of these contacts and some of his old customers are now buying his novelties and lamps.

Since the demand has grown so steadily and so great, Henry plans to try to find larger quarters for both production and display.

When he leaves his police job at the end of the month, he hopes to move his little plant to Cumberland if he can locate suitable quarters. If he can, he predicts that he will put six or seven people to work in the plant almost immediately.

Henry is past 59 years of age, has two sons and a daughter, all married, and has six grandchildren. He is an active, energetic individual, is quite enthusiastic with the prospects for his ornaments and especially for his TV lamps.

Homemakers Are Taught Musical Program For Year

Mrs. R. W. Trevaskis Sr. conducted a music training meeting for the Music chairmen, club presidents and accompanists of the Homemakers Clubs yesterday. It was held at the Cumberland Free Public Library with 30 women attending.

It was explained that each meeting in 1954 will open with a song of a different country and close with a hymn, the latter recommended by the State Federation of Music Clubs, to be used by all Homemaker Clubs throughout the state.

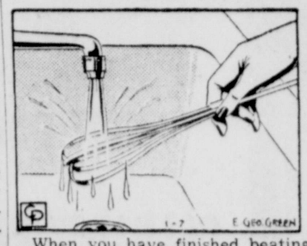

A brief background of the writer and composer of each hymn was given by Mrs. Trevaskis and several countries selected for the songs were depicted by native costumes worn by members of the Homemakers Chorus.

The opening songs and hymns were sung first by various members of the Homemakers Chorus and then by the group in unison. The soloists were Mrs. Harry Barton, Mrs. Paul Gilford, Mrs. Walter Long, Mrs. G. William Eichner, Mrs. E. S. Stewart, Mrs. R. R. Brotemarkle, Mrs. Elizabeth Chaney, Mrs. Madeline E. Snyder, Mrs. Carl Reith, Mrs. C. Raymond Burkey and Mrs. Elsie Brinkman.

The program of songs for the year includes "Drink To Me Only with Thine Eyes," English; "Juanita," Spanish; "O Sole Mio," Italian; "Alouette," French Canadian; "La Paloma," South American; "Be Still My Soul," Finnish; "America the Beautiful," American; "Aloha Oe," Hawaiian; "Loch Lomond," Scottish; Brahms' "Lullaby," German; "Prayer of Thanksgiving," Netherlands; and "Deck the Halls," Welsh.

Whether or not you travel, there's something for every woman in the new cruise and resort clothes!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Two factors have combined to make cruise and resort fashions now on display both more interesting and more important than in past years. One is the great increase in the number of winter vacationists. To meet the needs of the many careerists and wives who are now taking winter rather than summer vacations, the lines have been expanded to include more clothes for those in the middle-income brackets.

A second factor is the growing number of stay-at-homes who make selections from the resort collections both for immediate wear and to lay away in reserve for summer. These women seek the individuality and high styling that always characterize the advance spring and summer collection.

Well-worth Seeing

The result of this wide interest is a magnificent group of offerings and selections. For any fashion-minded woman, it is well worth time to view the collections.

If you are alert to trends, you will note that fashion is branching in two directions. On the one side are styles evolving from the princess and Empire lines. These are definitely feminine, figure-defining, dressy fashions. The tops are even wider than last season's and the hemlines are a bit shorter.

On the other side, fashion states itself most casually but positively. In this group, the fabrics are smooth and the boyish influence characterizes jackets, shorts, long pants and shirts. A large portion of these styles are the type of classics generally regarded as good investments, wearable as long as their threads stay together.

"Span-season" Styles

There is a goodly sprinkling of "span-season" styles in the collection — clothes that can be put on immediately and worn where er you live. Among these are the tissue-weight wool gabardines, excellent buys that may be worn from now into next fall. Another practical type is the costume made of the new washable wool blended with nylon. Be sure to see the new silk and miracle yarn fabrics and the new linens so textured that they look like wool.

Dyed-to-match mates with skirts of flannel, tweed or gabardine combined with knitted fabrics or sweaters in delightful colors are both enticing and excellent for spiking your present wardrobe with flattering new interest!

State Police Plan To Use Radar Device

The Maryland State Police will have a radar speedmeter operating on Route 40 in Allegany County today.

Officials said the state is divided into four zones, each of which has a troop of State Police and teams in each of these are being trained to operate the device.

In this section of Western Maryland Trooper First Class Charles DeWitt of LaVale Barracks will be the operator.

Used Here Two Years

Cpl. Samuel Conrad of Oakland and Trooper First Class Garland Walters of Waterloo Barracks are here training Trooper DeWitt.

The radar speed meter has been used by the City of Cumberland for two years as a device in registering speed of autos for purpose of arrest.

The speedmeter had been used by State Police for several years for instructional and warning purposes, but not for arrest.

In the last session of the General Assembly, a law was passed making the device legal for arrests.

However, soon after Cumberland Police Department placed its speedmeter in use, a test case resulted with the instrument being found legal.

The state law provides that there must be a sign "speed checked by radar" within four miles of the place where police have set it up.

The State Police announce it will not be used as a speed trap. It will also be used to study the speed of vehicles in certain high-accident areas. The officials also said it is planned to use it to determine the effectiveness of the state police speed program.

Piedmont Defeats Keyser In PVC Game, 61-54

Lions Score Seventh Win Of Campaign

Tommy Miller Tops Defending Champs With 20 Markers

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 6 — Piedmont High's Lions, bouncing back from their lacing at the hands of Bruce Monday night, handed the Keyser High Tornado its third straight loss, 61-54, here tonight in an important Potomac Valley Conference clash.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' cagers, paced by lanky Tommy Miller who banged home 20 points, rallied in the second half to edge the home team. It was the seventh victory of the campaign for the Lions and the third without a loss in the 10-team PVC circuit.

Keyser, now sporting a 2-3 mark for the season and 1-2 in the league, dropped behind in the first quarter but fought back to take a one-point lead at halftime, 26-25. Breaking a 22-22 tie, Bob Pasket, Keyser center, canned four points to give Coach John Shelton's charges the lead.

However George Campbell pushed home a goal and Miller added a foul to put Piedmont ahead 28-26 as the third quarter opened and the winners were never headed again, despite a 28-point effort by Paskel. The husky Keyser pivot ace tallied eight field goals and converted 12 of 13 foul shots for scoring honors for the night.

Piedmont lost its scoring ace, Bobby Niland, early in the third quarter on personal fouls, followed closely by Tommy Karras of Keyser who exited a few minutes later in the same stanza. Richard Morris of Keyser fouled out in the fourth period.

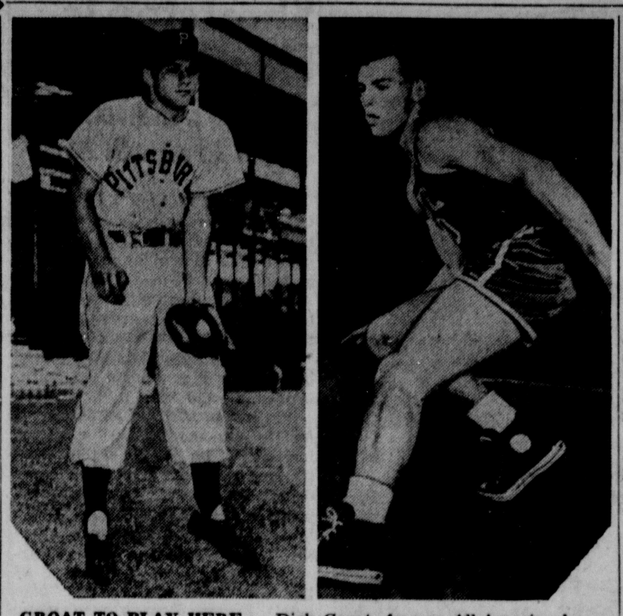

The meeting was the first this year between the two arch rivals who last year split their two engagements. The lineups:

Dick Groat To Head Cage Rivals Against Old Gees

Washington Jets To Be Here Sunday

Bob Pence, player-coach of the Cumberland Old Germans basketball team, announces that former All-America Dick Groat will head a touring troupe of army cagers from Fort Belvoir who will play the locals here Sunday night at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

Members of the great Fort Belvoir teams will be included on the roster of the Washington Jets, who will oppose the Old Germans at 8:45 p.m. Sunday as the Cumberlanders seek their sixth straight win.

According to Pence, army officials have given their okay for Groat and the others to play and the former Duke University cage and baseball star, now stationed at Fort Belvoir is expected to be in the visiting Jets lineup Sunday night.

The All-America basketeer's home is in Swissvale, Pa., and he starred at third base on the baseball team at Duke coached by Jack Coombs, who was a great major league pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics when Connie Mack had the great pitching trio of Eddie Plank, Chief Bender and Coombs.

Groat, incidentally, was the Duke 3rd baseman when Cumberland's Tommy Powers was the regular shortstop of the Blue Devils and Bill Werber, Jr., son of Bill Werber, former major league infielder, was the team's first sacker.

Groat made most All-America basketball teams while playing at Duke, breaking almost all scoring record at the Durham, N. C., school. He is a remarkable athlete and is still the property of the Pittsburgh Pirates and is among the few players who jumped from the college campus to the majors.

Along with Groat, Pence expects such players as Bud Donnelly, of LaSalle College,, Tom O'Keefe, former Georgetown great and member of the Washington Capitols, Dick Giedlin, ex-Notre Dame cager, Len Ishman, former American University player, Scott Cranston, formerly of Catholic University, and Bill Cunningham, ex-George Washington luminary.

In the preliminary the McCoole Vets, featuring Jimmy Clevenger and Wayne Boor, will meet the undefeated Turner's Dairy of Frostburg at 7:30 o'clock.

Smith Resigns As Grid Coach

Texas State Mentor Eyes Texas A & M Job

COMMERCE, Tex., Jan. 6 (AP)—Jilburn (Catfish) Smith, whose East Texas State football team boasts the nation's longest undefeated string, resigned today as head coach and said, "I'd sure be interested, yes sir" in the vacant Texas A&M coaching job.

Smith's resignation started immediate speculation over whether he was being considered by A&M, whose football coaching post was opened Monday when Ray George resigned.

The colorful Smith, 41, only this week was designated "College Coach of the Year" by the Texas Sports Writers Association after two straight undefeated seasons.

Smith told reporters he had been offered financially more attractive positions in both business and coaching.

The Lions had won 29 consecutive games until they met Arkansas State in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., Jan. 1. They fought the Arkansas team to a 7-7 tie, first break in the perfect record that began in October, 1951.

52 Boys Get Central YMCA Sports Emblems

Holiday Tournaments Held For Youngsters

Fifty-two boys from eight years up to high school age were recipients of Central YMCA athletic emblems after competing in several holiday tournaments held the past two weeks at the "Y" gym.

Sponsored by the athletic department of the "Y" under the direction of Clifton Van Roby the basketball tournaments consisted of numbers of baskets made per minute in the Gra-Y, Junior and Youth Classes, and best number of foul shots made in 25 tries in the Junior and Youth groups.

Phil Deffinbaugh captured the baskets per minute honors in the Gra-Y class, consisting of 8, 9 and 10-year-old youngsters, making 12 in the allotted time. Second was Charles Aronholt with 10.

In the Junior Class Ed Root and Jerry Meeks each converted 15 fouls of 25 tries, followed by Bob Fogtman with 13. Fogtman captured the baskets per minute tourney with 30. Root had 21 for second place honors.

In the Youth, or high school class Dale Middleton made 20 of 25 fouls, followed by Bob Smith with 16 of 25. George Eskins copped the baskets per minute trials with 31. Smith had 28.

The YMCA basketball emblems were presented to each of the 52 boys who participated in the events, Roby said last night.

Roby also announced the Sunday School basketball game scheduled for 4:35 p. m. at Allegany High gym between First Baptist and Grace Baptist had been moved as the opening game at Central YMCA gym at 11 a. m. Saturday.

Adult golf instruction classes will be resumed today, he continued, with classes scheduled at 2 and 7 p. m.

Patrick N. Y. Pilot

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS) — Murray (Muzz) Patrick, youngest member of "hockey's most illustrious family," today was appointed coach of the New York Rangers in the National Hockey League.

Rosen Outstanding

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6 (AP)—Al Rosen, named the most valuable player in the American League, today was named the outstanding athlete of 1953 by the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association.

Golf's Ben Hogan Is Named 23rd 'Male Athlete Of Year'

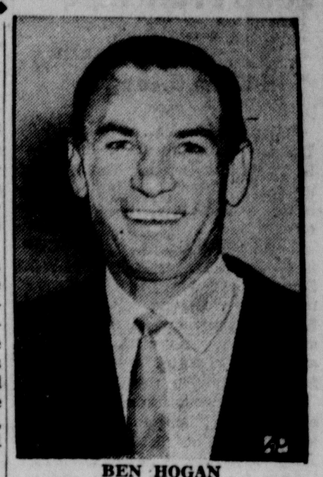

Receives 229 Votes; Marciano Is Second

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Ben Hogan, called by many the greatest golfer who ever lived after he captured the British Open championship last summer, was voted "Male Athlete of the Year" for 1953 today in the 23rd annual year-end Associated Press poll.

The Texas shotmaker, who won golfdom's triple crown in 1953—the U. S. and British Open championships and the Augusta Masters—was an overwhelming choice in the nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters. The 41-year-old Bantam Ben received 67 first place votes out of the 129 ballots cast, and rolled up 229 points on a 3-2-1 basis.

For the second straight year, Rocky Marciano, world's heavyweight champion, was runner-up. Marciano, who was second to Bob Mathias, twice Olympic decathlon champion in the 1952 poll, received 12 first place votes this time and a total of 80 points.

Third in the 1953 poll was Willie Shoemaker, the year's champion jockey who rode 485 winners, more than any other rider in one season in racing history.

BEN HOGAN

Two college football stars were fourth and fifth, respectively, Johnny Lattner of Notre Dame and Minnesota's Paul Giel. Following in order were Roy Campanella, the Brooklyn Dodgers catcher and National League most valauable player; Mal Whitfield, two-time Olympic 800 meters champion; Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger who returned late in the season from the Marine Corps and started banging homers again; and Wes Santee of Kansas, who set an American mile record of 4.02.4 last June 5.

Hogan is the first golfer to be named Male Athlete of the Year since Byron Nelson was voted the honor in both 1944 and 1945. Only one other golfer was chosen, Gene Sarazen in 1932—second year of the poll.

His triple crown, the Augusta National and the U. S. and British Opens, are as close as a pro can get to the "impossible quadruple" that Bobby Jones won in 1930 when he took the U. S. Open and Amateur and the British Open and Amateur. There was no Masters then.

Devore Is Named Dayton Grid Coach

CINCINNATI, Jan. 6 (AP) — Hugh J. Devore, 43, one time Notre Dame football star, has been named head grid coach at the University of Dayton, it was announced here tonight.

Harry Baujan, athletic director at Dayton, said Devore succeeds Joe Gavin, who resigned after the 1953 season.

Devore started last season as an assistant coach with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, but served as co-head coach for the last two games.

He was a star end at Notre Dame from 1931 to 1933 and has been a coach ever since graduation. He was head coach at Notre Dame in 1944, when the Irish won seven, lost two and tied one.

Piedmont Defeats Keyser In PVC Game, 61-54

Lions Score Seventh Win Of Campaign

Tommy Miller Tops Defending Champs With 20 Markers

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 6 — Piedmont High's Lions, bouncing back from their lacing at the hands of Bruce Monday night, handed the Keyser High Tornado its third straight loss, 61-54, here tonight in an important Potomac Valley Conference clash.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' cagers, paced by lanky Tommy Miller who banged home 20 points, rallied in the second half to edge the home team. It was the seventh victory of the campaign for the Lions and the third without a loss in the 10-team PVC circuit.

Keyser, now sporting a 2-3 mark for the season and 1-2 in the league, dropped behind in the first quarter but fought back to take a one-point lead at halftime, 26-25. Breaking a 22-22 tie, Bob Pasket, Keyser center, canned four points to give Coach John Shelton's charges the lead.

However George Campbell pushed home a goal and Miller added a foul to put Piedmont ahead 28-26 as the third quarter opened and the winners were never headed again, despite a 28-point effort by Paskel. The husky Keyser pivot ace tallied eight field goals and converted 12 of 13 foul shots for scoring honors for the night.

Dick Groat To Head Cage Rivals Against Old Gees

Washington Jets To Be Here Sunday

Bob Pence, player-coach of the Cumberland Old Germans basketball team, announces that former All-America Dick Groat will head a touring troupe of army cagers from Fort Belvoir who will play the locals here Sunday night at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

Members of the great Fort Belvoir teams will be included on the roster of the Washington Jets, who will oppose the Old Germans at 8:45 p.m. Sunday as the Cumberlanders seek their sixth straight win.

According to Pence, army officials have given their okay for Groat and the others to play and the former Duke University cage and baseball star, now stationed at Fort Belvoir is expected to be in the visiting Jets lineup Sunday night.

The All-America basketeer's home is in Swissvale, Pa., and he starred at third base on the baseball team at Duke coached by Jack Coombs, who was a great major league pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics when Connie Mack had the great pitching trio of Eddie Plank, Chief Bender and Coombs.

Groat, incidentally, was the Duke 3rd baseman when Cumberland's Tommy Powers was the regular shortstop of the Blue Devils and Bill Werber, Jr., son of Bill Werber, former major league infielder, was the team's first sacker.

Groat made most All-America basketball teams while playing at Duke, breaking almost all scoring record at the Durham, N. C., school. He is a remarkable athlete and is still the property of the Pittsburgh Pirates and is among the few players who jumped from the college campus to the majors.

Along with Groat, Pence expects such players as Bud Donnelly, of LaSalle College,, Tom O'Keefe, former Georgetown great and member of the Washington Capitols, Dick Giedlin, ex-Notre Dame cager, Len Ishman, former American University player, Scott Cranston, formerly of Catholic University, and Bill Cunningham, ex-George Washington luminary.

In the preliminary the McCoole Vets, featuring Jimmy Clevenger and Wayne Boor, will meet the undefeated Turner's Dairy of Frostburg at 7:30 o'clock.

Smith Resigns As Grid Coach

Texas State Mentor Eyes Texas A & M Job

COMMERCE, Tex., Jan. 6 (AP)—Jilburn (Catfish) Smith, whose East Texas State football team boasts the nation's longest undefeated string, resigned today as head coach and said, "I'd sure be interested, yes sir" in the vacant Texas A&M coaching job.

Smith's resignation started immediate speculation over whether he was being considered by A&M, whose football coaching post was opened Monday when Ray George resigned.

The colorful Smith, 41, only this week was designated "College Coach of the Year" by the Texas Sports Writers Association after two straight undefeated seasons.

Smith told reporters he had been offered financially more attractive positions in both business and coaching.

The Lions had won 29 consecutive games until they met Arkansas State in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., Jan. 1. They fought the Arkansas team to a 7-7 tie, first break in the perfect record that began in October, 1951.

52 Boys Get Central YMCA Sports Emblems

Holiday Tournaments Held For Youngsters

Fifty-two boys from eight years up to high school age were recipients of Central YMCA athletic emblems after competing in several holiday tournaments held the past two weeks at the "Y" gym.

Sponsored by the athletic department of the "Y" under the direction of Clifton Van Roby the basketball tournaments consisted of numbers of baskets made per minute in the Gra-Y, Junior and Youth Classes, and best number of foul shots made in 25 tries in the Junior and Youth groups.

Phil Deffinbaugh captured the baskets per minute honors in the Gra-Y class, consisting of 8, 9 and 10-year-old youngsters, making 12 in the allotted time. Second was Charles Aronholt with 10.

In the Junior Class Ed Root and Jerry Meeks each converted 15 fouls of 25 tries, followed by Bob Fogtman with 13. Fogtman captured the baskets per minute tourney with 30. Root had 21 for second place honors.

In the Youth, or high school class Dale Middleton made 20 of 25 fouls, followed by Bob Smith with 16 of 25. George Eskins copped the baskets per minute trials with 31. Smith had 28.

The YMCA basketball emblems were presented to each of the 52 boys who participated in the events, Roby said last night.

Roby also announced the Sunday School basketball game scheduled for 4:35 p. m. at Allegany High gym between First Baptist and Grace Baptist had been moved as the opening game at Central YMCA gym at 11 a. m. Saturday.

Golf's Ben Hogan Is Named 23rd 'Male Athlete Of Year'

Receives 229 Votes; Marciano Is Second

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Ben Hogan, called by many the greatest golfer who ever lived after he captured the British Open championship last summer, was voted "Male Athlete of the Year" for 1953 today in the 23rd annual year-end Associated Press poll.

The Texas shotmaker, who won golfdom's triple crown in 1953—the U. S. and British Open championships and the Augusta Masters—was an overwhelming choice in the nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters. The 41-year-old Bantam Ben received 67 first place votes out of the 129 ballots cast, and rolled up 229 points on a 3-2-1 basis.

For the second straight year, Rocky Marciano, world's heavyweight champion, was runner-up. Marciano, who was second to Bob Mathias, twice Olympic decathlon champion in the 1952 poll, received 12 first place votes this time and a total of 80 points.

Third in the 1953 poll was Willie Shoemaker, the year's champion jockey who rode 485 winners, more than any other rider in one season in racing history.

Two college football stars were fourth and fifth, respectively, Johnny Lattner of Notre Dame and Minnesota's Paul Giel. Following in order were Roy Campanella, the Brooklyn Dodgers catcher and National League most valauable player; Mal Whitfield, two-time Olympic 800 meters champion; Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger who returned late in the season from the Marine Corps and started banging homers again; and Wes Santee of Kansas, who set an American mile record of 4.02.4 last June 5.

Hogan is the first golfer to be named Male Athlete of the Year since Byron Nelson was voted the honor in both 1944 and 1945. Only one other golfer was chosen, Gene Sarazen in 1932—second year of the poll.

His triple crown, the Augusta National and the U. S. and British Opens, are as close as a pro can get to the "impossible quadruple" that Bobby Jones won in 1930 when he took the U. S. Open and Amateur and the British Open and Amateur. There was no Masters then.

Devore started last season as an assistant coach with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, but served as co-head coach for the last two games.

He was a star end at Notre Dame from 1931 to 1933 and has been a coach ever since graduation. He was head coach at Notre Dame in 1944, when the Irish won seven, lost two and tied one.

Petersburg, Va. Gets Piedmont Loop Franchise

Becomes 8th Team In Class B League

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 6 (AP) — The seven members of the Class B Piedmont League voted today to make Colonial Heights-Petersburg, Va., the eighth team in the circuit.

League President Frank Summers advised representatives from Sunbury, Pa., at 4:45 p.m. that the vote had gone against them. Sunbury was competing with Eddie Mooers, who wanted to operate at Colonial Heights-Petersburg, for the berth in the league.

Sunbury representatives indicated this was the end of the road as far as they were concerned. They said there was no other league for them to enter and indicated they would seek to sell their park lighting equipment.

Mooers for many years operated the Richmond club in the league. His new team will replace Richmond, which is moving up to the class AAA International League.

Piedmont directors also voted to rename Frank Summers, Staunton insurance man, as the league president for another year. Summers resigned last Nov. 1, but agreed to reconsider if the directors wanted him to stay on.

The directors also approved the transfer of the Norfolk franchise from the New York Yankees to Earl Harper and his associates. A fourth and final action of the directors was to review a tentative schedule which has opening games slated for April 22.

The eight teams will vote on the schedule either by mail or at another meeting, the date of which hasn't been set.

The vote on who would get the vacant Piedmont berth came after the directors had been in session for 2½ hours behind a locked hotel room door. B. A. Beck, general manager of the Sunbury Daily Item, was one of the representatives from Sunbury.

The group also voted for Frank Lawrence of Portsmouth as vice president. Both his and Summers' one-year terms run until next Nov. 1.

With the admission of Colonial Heights-Petersburg, the old established league is back to full strength. Roanoke dropped out during the season last year but was replaced by Lancaster, Pa. Other teams include Norfolk, Portsmouth, Newport News and Lynchburg, Va.; York, Pa.; Hagerstown, Md.; and the new member.

DETROIT, Jan. 6 (AP)—Steve Souchock, veteran Detroit Tiger utility man, today became the first to sign a 1954 contract with the club. Salary terms were not disclosed. The 34-year-old infielder and outfielder batted .302 last season.

Trabert Meets Ken Rosewall

Carries U. S. Hopes In Aussie Net Match

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 7 (Thursday) (AP)—Tony Trabert carried America's hopes in the semi-finals of the South Australian singles championships today as the "I-told-you-so" tennis fans had the last word in the disputed doubles in the recent Davis Cup challenge round.

Trabert, of Cincinnati, meets Aussie Ken Rosewall in one of this afternoon's semi-final matches while the other is an All-Australian match between Lewis Hoad and Rex Hartwig.

The doubles controversy had new fuel to work on as a result of the semi-finals yesterday in the South Australian championships. Rosewall, who was removed from the Aussie doubles combination in Davis Cup play after which the American pair blasted Hoad and Hartwig for a vital point, teamed again with Hoad here.

A crowd of 5,500 watched as the 19-year-old Australians got back together and defeated Trabert and Seixas, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

In the other doubles semi-final Hartwig and Mervyn Rose ousted Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., and Bob Perry of Los Angeles, 10-8, 1-6, 8-6, 6-3.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS) — Al Weill's new slogan is: "a million more in '54."

And the stylish-stout manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano isn't speaking about the gravy spots on his own vest when he says that.

He means that Rocky will gross that much dough this year but, no one knows better than Al, that Rocky will be able to retain only a small portion of his earnings. Uncle Sam's tax collector will take care of that.

Uncle Sam is a tougher foe than anybody Rocky ever will meet in the ring and in his own way the old gent with the whiskers can hand out more punishment than a dozen Marcianos.

Uncle Sam grabs 91 percent off all earnings over $200,000 so you can see where Rocky is due to take a terrific financial beating.

A million bucks? That's a fair sized chunk of dough and Al may be a trifle optimistic in thinking Rocky can get it in one year.

There is no doubt Rocky could make it with ease if he had a foe who would draw as did Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney. You may recall that Gene got a few thousand dollars less than a million in cash for his second fight with Jack in Chicago.

Moreover, the tax bite was easy in those days and Gene was able to keep most of his million whereas Rocky, even if he had a 3-million dollar gate, would be able to keep comparatively little.

The International Boxing Club estimates a Marciano fight in Miami next month might gross $250,000 of which Rocky would get $100,000. Let's say that the TV people might give $100,000 for the rights. Of that, Rocky would get $40,000 or $140,000 in all for the fight.

Let's suppose that somebody can be built up into what the fight announcers call "a most worthy opponent" by summer and that an outdoor shot might draw $500,000 with TV blacked out in the neighborhood of the fight.

'Let's also suppose — and this is a large supposition — that the TV people will kick in with another $300,000.

That would mean a gross $800,000 of which Rocky would get 40 percent or $320,000.

Now add this to the $140,000 we have so generously given him for the Miami affair and the total is a mere $460,000.

Let's give him — since it costs us nothing — another $50,000 for an exhibition tour and $50,000 more for endorsements, radio and TV appearances, etc. and the grand total is "only" $560,000 and that's a far cry from a million skins.

We have a hunch that Rocky would be very glad indeed to wind up the year with $200,000 (after taxes) for himself. So would we.

Tourney Funds Go To Public Cause

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — Any money made from this year's Eastern Open will go toward a fund to build another public golf course in Baltimore, Tourney Chairman Tom O'Donnell announced today.

O'Donnell also said an attempt will be made to make the fifth Eastern Open a city-wide affair. In the past, it has been sponsored by a brewery and The Sunpapers in cooperation with Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro.

O'Donnell said that big business will be asked to cooperate in underwriting the $15,000 tournament at Mount Pleasant, one of the city's four public courses.

Famed Braves Shortstop Is Heart Victim

Rabbit Maranville Dies At Age Of 61

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, one of baseball's finest shortstops for over 20 years, died last night at his home at the age of 61 of a heart attack.

Ironically, Maranville died while ballots were being distributed for the latest Hall of Fame election. "The Rab" was high on the list last year and certain to get heavy support in the voting.

Maranville will be remembered for his famous "basket" catch on infield fly balls. He would drop his hands low as a pop fly came down to make the catch down near his knees, sending a hum through the crowd. Yet he seldom dropped the ball—maybe once in 10 years.

Maranville first won fame as the shortstop of the 1914 "Miracle" Boston Braves who came from last place July 4 to win the National League pennant and then swept four straight from the Philadelphia A's in the World Series.

The Rabbit made the rounds—Boston, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Brooklyn, St. Louis and Boston again with one brief trip to the minors in between. He managed the Chicago Cubs for two months in 1925, succeeding Bill Killefer in midseason, and reluctantly accepted the job of managing the Braves from Emil Fuchs in 1929.

Maranville's big league career ended, for all practical purposes in 1934, when he broke his left leg in a spring training game while playing with Boston against the New York Yankees at St. Petersburg.

Snead To Play In British Open

Plans To Enter Masters, P.G.A.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP)—Sammy Snead, golf's hardest swinger, said today he planned to enter the British Open championship next July.

It will mark Snead's first appearance in the tournament in eight years. He won the British crown in 1946 but failed to defend it.

Snead, who has just entered the fishing equipment business in partnership with Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, said he will enter three major tournaments this year besides the British Open—the U. S. Open, the Masters and the PGA. The only major title that has eluded him is the U. S. Open.

Snead has won the PGA three times, the Masters twice and the British Open once. He once tied in the U. S. Open but lost in a playoff.

Tribe Signs Nelson To 1954 Contract

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6 (AP — Infielder Glenn (Rocky) Nelson, a strong contender for the first base job with the Cleveland Indians, signed his 1954 contract today at a meeting with General Manager Hank Greenberg in Havana, Cuba.

Nelson, purchased from Brooklyn last fall, currently is batting .323 for Almandares in the Cuban winter league.

There are about 200,000 gas stations in the United States.

NCAA Expected To Continue TV Controls

Members To Vote On Plan Friday

CINCINNATI, Jan. 6 (AP)—College football television next fall will be subjected to virtually the same controls as in 1953 if the recommendations of the National Collegiate A. A. Television Committee are carried out.

The committee today finished compiling its report and recommendations to the NCAA convention. Chairman Robert J. Kane of Cornell and Program Director Asa S. Bushnell refused to divulge the details of this report until they can be presented tomorrow.

They indicated, however, the committee was satisfied with the results of the game-a-week controlled program last fall. Kane added that the recommendations will be "substantially the same with some added provisions."

Kane said no plan for regional controls or other variations had been submitted to his committee. But it is virtually certain that something of this sort will be offered before the NCAA members vote on the TV program Friday.

The Big Ten conference is on record as favoring regional, instead of national controls, and a small group of colleges led by Notre Dame still believes that all restrictions should be removed.

Ed "Moose" Krause, Notre Dame athletic director, probably will reiterate his position.

Krause, who argues vehemently that college football is "dying a slow death" because of the restrictions, admits that he doesn't expect any success in his campaign. He has waged war against the NCAA program for several years without influencing the voting.

The regional proposals are expected to meet with strong opposition from the small colleges and Eastern institutions. The basic idea of all such plans is to set up television committees in each of the eight NCAA districts and give them control in their own areas instead of handling every-thing on a national basis.

Petersburg, Va. Gets Piedmont Loop Franchise

Becomes 8th Team In Class B League

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 6 (AP) — The seven members of the Class B Piedmont League voted today to make Colonial Heights-Petersburg, Va., the eighth team in the circuit.

League President Frank Summers advised representatives from Sunbury, Pa., at 4:45 p.m. that the vote had gone against them. Sunbury was competing with Eddie Mooers, who wanted to operate at Colonial Heights-Petersburg, for the berth in the league.

Sunbury representatives indicated this was the end of the road as far as they were concerned. They said there was no other league for them to enter and indicated they would seek to sell their park lighting equipment.

Mooers for many years operated the Richmond club in the league. His new team will replace Richmond, which is moving up to the class AAA International League.

Piedmont directors also voted to rename Frank Summers, Staunton insurance man, as the league president for another year. Summers resigned last Nov. 1, but agreed to reconsider if the directors wanted him to stay on.

The directors also approved the transfer of the Norfolk franchise from the New York Yankees to Earl Harper and his associates. A fourth and final action of the directors was to review a tentative schedule which has opening games slated for April 22.

The eight teams will vote on the schedule either by mail or at another meeting, the date of which hasn't been set.

The vote on who would get the vacant Piedmont berth came after the directors had been in session for 2½ hours behind a locked hotel room door. B. A. Beck, general manager of the Sunbury Daily Item, was one of the representatives from Sunbury.

The group also voted for Frank Lawrence of Portsmouth as vice president. Both his and Summers' one-year terms run until next Nov. 1.

With the admission of Colonial Heights-Petersburg, the old established league is back to full strength. Roanoke dropped out during the season last year but was replaced by Lancaster, Pa. Other teams include Norfolk, Portsmouth, Newport News and Lynchburg, Va.; York, Pa.; Hagerstown, Md.; and the new member.

Trabert Meets Ken Rosewall

Carries U. S. Hopes In Aussie Net Match

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 7 (Thursday) (AP)—Tony Trabert carried America's hopes in the semi-finals of the South Australian singles championships today as the "I-told-you-so" tennis fans had the last word in the disputed doubles in the recent Davis Cup challenge round.

Trabert, of Cincinnati, meets Aussie Ken Rosewall in one of this afternoon's semi-final matches while the other is an All-Australian match between Lewis Hoad and Rex Hartwig.

The doubles controversy had new fuel to work on as a result of the semi-finals yesterday in the South Australian championships. Rosewall, who was removed from the Aussie doubles combination in Davis Cup play after which the American pair blasted Hoad and Hartwig for a vital point, teamed again with Hoad here.

A crowd of 5,500 watched as the 19-year-old Australians got back together and defeated Trabert and Seixas, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

In the other doubles semi-final Hartwig and Mervyn Rose ousted Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., and Bob Perry of Los Angeles, 10-8, 1-6, 8-6, 6-3.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS) — Al Weill's new slogan is: "a million more in '54."

And the stylish-stout manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano isn't speaking about the gravy spots on his own vest when he says that.

He means that Rocky will gross that much dough this year but, no one knows better than Al, that Rocky will be able to retain only a small portion of his earnings. Uncle Sam's tax collector will take care of that.

Uncle Sam is a tougher foe than anybody Rocky ever will meet in the ring and in his own way the old gent with the whiskers can hand out more punishment than a dozen Marcianos.

Uncle Sam grabs 91 percent off all earnings over $200,000 so you can see where Rocky is due to take a terrific financial beating.

A million bucks? That's a fair sized chunk of dough and Al may be a trifle optimistic in thinking Rocky can get it in one year.

There is no doubt Rocky could make it with ease if he had a foe who would draw as did Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney. You may recall that Gene got a few thousand dollars less than a million in cash for his second fight with Jack in Chicago.

Moreover, the tax bite was easy in those days and Gene was able to keep most of his million whereas Rocky, even if he had a 3-million dollar gate, would be able to keep comparatively little.

The International Boxing Club estimates a Marciano fight in Miami next month might gross $250,000 of which Rocky would get $100,000. Let's say that the TV people might give $100,000 for the rights. Of that, Rocky would get $40,000 or $140,000 in all for the fight.

Let's suppose that somebody can be built up into what the fight announcers call "a most worthy opponent" by summer and that an outdoor shot might draw $500,000 with TV blacked out in the neighborhood of the fight.

Let's also suppose — and this is a large supposition — that the TV people will kick in with another $300,000.

That would mean a gross $800,000 of which Rocky would get 40 percent or $320,000.

Now add this to the $140,000 we have so generously given him for the Miami affair and the total is a mere $460,000.

Let's give him — since it costs us nothing — another $50,000 for an exhibition tour and $50,000 more for endorsements, radio and TV appearances, etc. and the grand total is "only" $560,000 and that's a far cry from a million skins.

We have a hunch that Rocky would be very glad indeed to wind up the year with $200,000 (after taxes) for himself. So would we.

Tourney Funds Go To Public Cause

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — Any money made from this year's Eastern Open will go toward a fund to build another public golf course in Baltimore, Tourney Chairman Tom O'Donnell announced today.

O'Donnell also said an attempt will be made to make the fifth Eastern Open a city-wide affair. In the past, it has been sponsored by a brewery and The Sunpapers in cooperation with Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro.

O'Donnell said that big business will be asked to cooperate in underwriting the $15,000 tournament at Mount Pleasant, one of the city's four public courses.

Famed Braves Shortstop Is Heart Victim

Rabbit Maranville Dies At Age Of 61

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, one of baseball's finest shortstops for over 20 years, died last night at his home at the age of 61 of a heart attack.

Ironically, Maranville died while ballots were being distributed for the latest Hall of Fame election. "The Rab" was high on the list last year and certain to get heavy support in the voting.

Maranville will be remembered for his famous "basket" catch on infield fly balls. He would drop his hands low as a pop fly came down to make the catch down near his knees, sending a hum through the crowd. Yet he seldom dropped the ball—maybe once in 10 years.

Maranville first won fame as the shortstop of the 1914 "Miracle" Boston Braves who came from last place July 4 to win the National League pennant and then swept four straight from the Philadelphia A's in the World Series.

The Rabbit made the rounds—Boston, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Brooklyn, St. Louis and Boston again with one brief trip to the minors in between. He managed the Chicago Cubs for two months in 1925, succeeding Bill Killefer in midseason, and reluctantly accepted the job of managing the Braves from Emil Fuchs in 1929.

Snead To Play In British Open

Plans To Enter Masters, P.G.A.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP)—Sammy Snead, golf's hardest swinger, said today he planned to enter the British Open championship next July.

It will mark Snead's first appearance in the tournament in eight years. He won the British crown in 1946 but failed to defend it.

Snead, who has just entered the fishing equipment business in partnership with Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, said he will enter three major tournaments this year besides the British Open—the U. S. Open, the Masters and the PGA. The only major title that has eluded him is the U. S. Open.

Snead has won the PGA three times, the Masters twice and the British Open once. He once tied in the U. S. Open but lost in a playoff.

Tribe Signs Nelson To 1954 Contract

There are about 200,000 gas stations in the United States.

NCAA Expected To Continue TV Controls

Members To Vote On Plan Friday

CINCINNATI, Jan. 6 (AP)—College football television next fall will be subjected to virtually the same controls as in 1953 if the recommendations of the National Collegiate A. A. Television Committee are carried out.

The committee today finished compiling its report and recommendations to the NCAA convention. Chairman Robert J. Kane of Cornell and Program Director Asa S. Bushnell refused to divulge the details of this report until they can be presented tomorrow.

They indicated, however, the committee was satisfied with the results of the game-a-week controlled program last fall. Kane added that the recommendations will be "substantially the same with some added provisions."

Kane said no plan for regional controls or other variations had been submitted to his committee. But it is virtually certain that something of this sort will be offered before the NCAA members vote on the TV program Friday.

The Big Ten conference is on record as favoring regional, instead of national controls, and a small group of colleges led by Notre Dame still believes that all restrictions should be removed.

Krause, who argues vehemently that college football is "dying a slow death" because of the restrictions, admits that he doesn't expect any success in his campaign. He has waged war against the NCAA program for several years without influencing the voting.

The regional proposals are expected to meet with strong opposition from the small colleges and Eastern institutions. The basic idea of all such plans is to set up television committees in each of the eight NCAA districts and give them control in their own areas instead of handling every-thing on a national basis.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6 (INS) — Marriage is no nearer for redhaired Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas. When she telephoned me she didn't sound as excited about the Latin lover as she did a few weeks ago.

Perhaps this is because her career has taken such an upsurge. Arlene leaves for New York the end of the week for a hurried conference with Producer Felix Bretano about appearing on Broadway in "Manon," based on the opera, of course. I'm sure her big success as Roxanne opposite Jose Ferrer in "Cyrano" last fall is responsible for this bid.

On Jan. 20, Arlene reports to Universal-International for "Bengal Rifles" at the largest salary she's every received. Very flattering in these days of cuts. Her co-star is handsome Rock Hudson.

Although I could get no verification of this, I happen to know one of the pictures being discussed as Mervyn Leroy's first at Warner Brothers is "Mister Roberts."

Josh Logan, who was supposed to produce and direct the movie version of this stage play, has been sick and unable to. So, since Mervyn is the Mr. Big of directors on that lot, it would only be natural that it be handed to him.

Meanwhile, Merv is in Palm Springs resting and says he doesn't know what he's going to do until he talks with Jack Warner, who is due back from Florida today.

The very day Lance Reventlow arrived in Los Angeles he went to see his former stepfather, Cary Grant. He tells Cary all his troubles.

And speaking of Lance, the friends of his mother, Barbara Hutton, who knew about the gorgeous necklace Barbara had given Countess Dorothy di Frasso, wondered if it had been put in a safety deposit vault, or if it's among the jewels Dorothy had with her.

The countess was very kind to Barbara when she was a youngster, and I remember the day she gave Dorothy this beautiful present in appreciation of their friendship.

Don't let the Bing Crosby-Mona Freeman dating fool you as an old romance warmed over. I say it's hotter than ever between these two.

Bing, who used to shun the night spots, has been dining almost nightly with Mona at the quieter bistros. Monday night they were at a table for two at the Tail o' the Cock and the place might have been deserted for all they knew. They had eyes only for each other.

Jane Withers' husband, Bill Moss, is in town to see her and the children, but I regret to say there's no reconciliation. Janie is doing well again on TV and, well, Bill is a playboy.

Peter Lawford is still in Florida where he went to see Pat Kennedy, daughter of ex-Ambassador Joe Kennedy. This is about the third time in a year Peter's been in love, so I can't believe either he or Pat is serious.

The Audrey Hepburn-Mel Ferrer romance is hotter than a midsummer sun. They're together in New York all the time.

The beauty from Israel Kirk Douglas dated while making "The Juggler," Hana Messinger, is here to start her Hollywood career for Lee Soble. Although Hana served in the underground for two years, she's only 21.

Illness wrecked the holidays for Pierre Galante and Olivia de Havilland, because Livvie's son, Benjy, was down with the flu, in Paris, and Galante had to fly to Nice to the bedside of his mother who is critically ill.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Mr. and Mrs. John Shannon, 170 McCulloh Street, Frostburg, have been notified that their son, Sgt. Robert E. Shannon, 20, who was reported missing in action in Korea on December 6, 1950, has been officially declared dead.

His brother, Pvt. Joseph Michael Shannon, 18, was reported missing in action in February 1951 and later his body was found and returned to the states for burial. Services were held at St. Michael's Catholic Church in August 1951.

The letter the Shannons received yesterday from the War Department stated that the actual date of death of their son was not established, but that the official findings were made under provisions of Public Law 490.

Sgt. Shannon was attached to the Headquarters Battalion of the 57th Field Artillery Battalion of the Seventh Division when he was reported missing in action.

He enlisted in the service in August 1948 and was stationed in Japan for two years before being sent to Korea. He attended Beall High School before enlisting.

In his last letter home, Sgt. Shannon told his parents that he was writing the letter in a foxhole located three miles from the Manchurian border with the temperature being 30 degrees below zero. He enclosed a Christmas gift of $150.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, John Shannon, Baltimore, a veteran of the Marine Corps, and Charles Shannon, at home, and three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Lavin and Anna Lee and Mary Louise Shannon, both at home.

Barclay On Bridge

CANCELING HIS TRUMPS

IF A BUSINESS double, or perhaps some other development in the auction, or in the early play, shows that a particular defender has the outstanding trumps bunched against you, the outlook is not rosy. Possibly, though, he may be forced to lead trumps to you, if you are able to stick him in the lead at the most advantageous time. That is, advantageous for you, but disadvantageous for him. By so doing you may be able to cancel out a trump trick otherwise destined for him.

East's considerably shaded opening set the stage for sparkling developments here. The cause looked none too good for South when West led the club Q and then the J, followed by the 3 to the K, which South ruffed with the diamond 2. Counting the doubler for either four or five trumps, South set about building a throw-in, which might work.

After the spade A and K scored, the 5 was ruffed by the diamond 6 and the two heart tops scored, followed by the 5, which East won with the 10. With six tricks in, on which he had counted, South now had to get three tricks in trumps, the only suit he had left. Happy to have seen both defenders follow suit on all of those tricks, he now was ready for action when East returned his sole trump, which the declarer made West win by playing the 9.

Sure enough West was now in the lead with the 10, retaining only the Q-8-7, while South had the A-K-J. Actually it made no difference what West returned. He picked the 8, which the J won, and the two tops finished the hand. That gave South a nice game, which was never in the cards for his side except through the succession of pleasant developments. The one big risk to his only available sound try was that West might have held only a doubleton in hearts or spades, and hence could have ruffed early while retaining the chance for a trick with his diamond Q.

Barclay On Bridge

CANCELING HIS TRUMPS

IF A BUSINESS double, or perhaps some other development in the auction, or in the early play, shows that a particular defender has the outstanding trumps bunched against you, the outlook is not rosy. Possibly, though, he may be forced to lead trumps to you, if you are able to stick him in the lead at the most advantageous time. That is, advantageous for you, but disadvantageous for him. By so doing you may be able to cancel out a trump trick otherwise destined for him.

East	South	West	North

Pass	3 ♦	Dbl.

East's considerably shaded opening set the stage for sparkling developments here. The cause looked none too good for South when West led the club Q and then the J, followed by the 3 to the K, which South ruffed with the diamond 2. Counting the doubler for either four or five trumps, South set about building a throw-in, which might work.

After the spade A and K scored, the 5 was ruffed by the diamond 6 and the two heart tops scored, followed by the 5, which East won with the 10. With six tricks in, on which he had counted, South now had to get three tricks in trumps, the only suit he had left. Happy to have seen both defenders follow suit on all of those tricks, he now was ready for action when East returned his sole trump, which the declarer made West win by playing the 9.

Sure enough West was now in the lead with the 10, retaining only the Q-8-7, while South had the A-K-J. Actually it made no difference what West returned. He picked the 8, which the J won, and the two tops finished the hand. That gave South a nice game, which was never in the cards for his side except through the succession of pleasant developments. The one big risk to his only available sound try was that West might have held only a doubleton in hearts or spades, and hence could have ruffed early while retaining the chance for a trick with his diamond Q.

How should North play for 4-Spades if East opens the heart K and switches to the spade 9?

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Mother and Grandmother, Sarah C. Seggie, who passed away 6 years ago today, Jan. 7, 1948.

Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of one who once sat there.
Beyond the sunset she has gone,
Still memories linger on.

Loving daughters,
Sarah and Anna,
Grandchildren and Great-Grandchildren

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Mother and Grandmother, Sarah C. Seggie, who passed away 6 years ago today, Jan. 7, 1948.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair,
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of one who once sat there.
Beyond the sunset she has gone,

Loving daughters, Sarah and Anna. Grandchildren and Great-Grandchildren

LOSING SLEEP over how to balance the family budget in these days of uncertainties. Stop for a minute and consider whether the want ads can help you. MAKE THIS A PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR

Our equipment is fully covered by patents and is non-competitive. There is nowhere else in the entire State that people can purchase anything like what we have to offer them. They must buy from us.

Over 20 years ago our equipment was developed and sold only for professional use. In 1949 we made our equipment available to the public for use in homes, schools, athletic organizations, offices and automobiles. This created a new industry. Public acceptance justified our change and sales jumped from $100,000 in 1949 to $5,000,000 in 1952. This year sales are expected to exceed $10,000,000.

$250,000 spent last two months on National Advertising has thousands of people waiting for some one to call on them. Well known National News Commentator also creating a large demand for our products. Everyone can use our products. Salesmen are selling 1 out of 2 demonstrations; earning not less than $20.00 per sale.

We want to talk to men who want to earn $10,000 per year with opportunities for advancement. We don't want men with a wishbone, but men with a Backbone that will back up their desire for large earnings by doing the things it takes to be successful. Car and Burning Desire to succeed necessary. We will give the rest. Expenses, Commission and Bonus.

Market Has Quiet Session With Prices Fairly Steady

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) — The Stock Market went through a quiet session today with prices fairly steady.

There seldom were movements more than a fraction either way, and the higher side of the market was more crowded.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down only 10 cents at $109.70. In the two previous days it had gained $1.70.

That decline in the average price level was more than offset by the number of individual gainers. There were 532 stocks closing higher as compared with 312 that slipped to the minus side. Altogether, 1,128 issues were on the tape, three more than yesterday.

It was followed by servel up ⅜ at 8⅜, Columbia Gas off ⅛ at 12¾, Studebaker unchanged at 22-⅛, and American Telephone off ⅛ at 156⅞. During the day Studebaker announced the layoff at the end of this week of between 3,000 and 3,500 workers.

New selling plan on proven money making product, plus new products has made this one of the greatest opportunities in the selling field.

Our equipment is fully covered by patents and is non-competitive. There is nowhere else in the entire State that people can purchase anything like what we have to offer them. They must buy from us.

Over 20 years ago our equipment was developed and sold only for professional use. In 1949 we made our equipment available to the public for use in homes, schools, athletic organizations, offices and automobiles. This created a new industry. Public acceptance justified our change and sales jumped from $100,000 in 1949 to $5,000,000 in 1952. This year sales are expected to exceed $10,000,000.

$250,000 spent last two months on National Advertising has thousands of people waiting for some one to call on them. Well known National News Commentator also creating a large demand for our products. Everyone can use our products. NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) — The Stock Market went through a quiet session today with prices fairly steady.

There seldom were movements more than a fraction either way, and the higher side of the market was more crowded.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down only 10 cents at $109.70. In the two previous days it had gained $1.70.

The industrial component of the average today was off 20 cents. The rails and utilities each lost 10 cents.

That decline in the average price level was more than offset by the number of individual gainers. There were 532 stocks closing higher as compared with 312 that slipped to the minus side. Altogether, 1,128 issues were on the tape, three more than yesterday.

Hudson Motor Car was the day's most active issue up ⅛ at 12¼ with 20,900 shares traded.

It was followed by servel up ⅜ at 8⅜, Columbia Gas off ⅛ at 12¾, Studebaker unchanged at 22-⅛, and American Telephone off ⅛ at 156⅞. During the day Studebaker announced the layoff at the end of this week of between 3,000 and 3,500 workers.

Grand Jury Indicts Lockard In Slaying Of William Eline

Defendant Expected To Retain Counsel

William E. Lockard, 42, of Homewood Addition, has been indicted by the Grand Jury of the January term of Allegany County Circuit Court and is being held in County Jail on a charge of murder in the death of William F. Eline, 53.

Eline's body was found by City Police on December 11 in an alley off Bedford Street.

Yesterday afternoon, Lockard, who has been in jail since the night of the slaying, was taken before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris by Deputy Sheriff William Chappell.

Attorney Not Retained

Judge Harris asked Lockard if he had counsel for his defense and he answered negatively. The judge then told him that if he wa. unable t. get a lawyer that the court would appoint counsel for him. Judge Harris said he wants to know by this afternoon whether counsel has been obtained by Lockard.

Edward J. Ryan, local attorney, was requested by Lockard to take his case. Ryan had said he would study the background and facts of the case but has withdrawn as legal counsel.

Harold E. Naughton, local attorney, talked with Lockard yesterday afternoon at the County Jail and will have another discussion with him this morning before deciding whether or not to take the case.

Weapon Still Missing

Lockard has been lodged in Allegany County Jail since he reportedly signed a 22-page statement concerning the shooting following questioning in the State's Attorney's office.

Police said Lockard had told them he shot the victim and then threw the weapon, a .22 caliber rifle, into the Potomac River at the Wiley Ford Bridge. With the use of magnets, grappling hooks and rakes, authorities made a search of the area but were unable to recover the weapon.

217 Are Placed In Jobs During December Here

Paper Industry Leads Nation In Production

Some 217 persons were placed in local jobs by the Cumberland office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security, it was reported yesterday by Francis A. Kenney, manager.

The jobs were mostly in retail sales, domestic service and temporary government jobs during the holiday season. Because of the holiday employment, placements increased last month over November's 161 placements.

Kenney pointed out that the active file of persons registered as unemployed at the local office reached a total of 3,797 during December. This does not include approximately 1,400 applicants who were temporarily idle during the late part of the last month.

The December total of unemployed on the active file represents a steady increase of registered persons since last July when the total was 1,789 persons. December's figure is slightly more than double of that for July.

A significant factor in the local economy, Kenney said, was the decline in textile employment, and to a lesser extent, decline in employment in rubber and needle trades. These same declines are evident throughout the nation.

According to a report in "U. S. News and World Report," the paper industry leads the nation in production. At present it is at its peak and equals the production level of the Korean War years.

Figures of the Federal Reserve Board shows that, based on 1935-39 figures of 100 per cent, paper and its products today lead with a rating of 216 per cent.

As for the rubber industry, it compares with lumber production. Both are 12.7 per cent lower than the Korean War peak. Rubber during the war years hit a 275 per cent production peak, while today it is only down to 240 per cent.

The report said outlook for tires and other rubber products in 1954 is considered "excellent," but companies relying solely on tire sales face keen competition.

On the other hand, textiles are on the bottom of the list, and production is 20.3 per cent off the Korean War peak. It now stands at 157 per cent compared to 197 per cent during the Korean conflict. The "U. S. News and World Report" article said sales of cloth, apparel and other such goods next spring could be equal to or slightly under 1953.

The beginning of the new year also sees the Cumberland area seeking additional industries, and many principals look at the situation with optimism.

They pointed to one great asset that the district can supply which is most important to any industry. That is water. Authorities point to the fact that this area has an unlimited supply, maybe not utilized now, but it can be had.

While Cumberland itself has not had any water shortages, several other nearby communities have felt summer droughts. But this is only because not all water is being impounded or utilized correctly yet.

Last summer, the Savage River Dam above Luke sometimes supplied as much as 50 per cent of the water flow in the Potomac River at Cumberland. At the same time, the dam impounds only about 25 per cent of the water available from the North Branch Potomac River watershed.

Fire Alarm Box Installed

A fire alarm box purchased by the Ort Brothers Bakery has been hooked up to the Cumberland fire alarm system, Fire Chief V. A. Parker announced yesterday.

The alarm box, which becomes No. 38 of the city system, has been installed on the corner of the building.

The device, Chief Parker said, will serve a four-block area, in addition to the bakery. East Side Fire Company will answer first alarms.

The fire chief said the only cost to the city was for installation. The firm will connect the alarm to its sprinkler system to boost the value of the fire protection apparatus.

Chief Parker said the department will make similar hookups for any company which wishes box alarm protection. Several years ago, the Algonquin Hotel installed an outside alarm box in connection with its fire protection system.

The new box brings the total in service to the 88 mark.

Jewish Welfare Fund Directors Will Meet

The board of directors of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Western Maryland will hold a special meeting at 8:15 this evening in the vestry room of B'er Chayim Temple.

Reports on the recent campaign for funds of the United Jewish Appeal will be given.

The Jewish Cultural Committee of Cumberland also will meet tonight at the same time at the temple to arrange for the presentation of the next speaker scheduled for January 17.

City Voting Rolls Are At 14,475 Mark

Registration Drops 21 During December

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, said the total Cumberland registration stood at the 14,475 mark on January 1.

The new voters include two men and one woman. Four persons, one man and three women, lost their voting franchise in the city for failing to vote during the past five years.

Two others, a man and a woman, were removed from the books after they had moved from the city.

14,475 On Books

Only three changes in registration details were made during the month.

The registration includes 7,648 male and 6,556 female white voters for a total of 14,204. The 271 colored voters include 174 men and 97 women.

Cumberland registration officials are expecting hundreds of new voters to register during the coming months as interest in the 1954 city elections increases.

These will include citizens who will be 21 by June 15, the date of the city general election, and those whose names have been stricken off the books for failing to vote.

The present records, which have been undergoing constant revision since 1951 list about 7,000 fewer voters than were listed as eligible for the 1950 election.

Will Up Percentage

In the 1950 vote, with 21,516 voters on the books, 11,494 went to the polls for the general election, indicating a poor 52 per cent turnout. Two years later, after 6,000 inactive voters had been removed from the books, 11,123 went to the polls on election day, showing a 72 per cent turnout.

Revisions made in the books during the past two years should increase the voting percentage on election day if balloting is near the 11,000 mark.

Weber Is Named Head Of City Airport Board

Commission Backs Sports Car Races

Arthur J. Weber was elected chairman of the Municipal Airport Commission at a meeting in City Hall last night.

Weber has been a member of the commission since it was formed, and has been an active member of Chamber of Commerce aviation committees for a number of years.

William R. Carscaden, local attorney, was named a member of the commission to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Adolf Blunk, who served as chairman for some time.

The commission granted permission to the Cumberland Lions Club to hold its 1954 Sports Car Races at the city airport, subject to approval of the Mayor and Council, the Civil Aeronautics Authority and Allegheny Airlines.

The Sports Car Races are planned for May 16. The club has asked that the port be available for parts of May 14 and 15 so drivers, members of the Steel Cities Section, Sports Car Club of America, may prepare for the meet.

The event drew 7,000 spectators last year in spite of rain, and proved to be one of the most popular attractions of the year. Crowds of 70,000 or more have been attending similar events in many parts of the country.

Also approved was the application of Warren G. Mullenax to renew his lease of the airport, effective March 1. Permission was given subject an audit of the books of the firm and settlement of all accounts due the city by March 31.

Youth Sentenced To Penitentiary In Forgery Case

Accessory To Crime Is Placed On Parole

An 18-year-old Romney, W. Va. youth was sentenced to from one to 10 years in the West Virginia Penitentiary at Moundsville yesterday in Hampshire County Circuit Court on charges of forgery.

Donald Lee Poland had pleaded guilty to the charges Tuesday after he was indicted by a 15-man Grand Jury. Prosecuting Attorney Ralph W. Haines said Poland was accused of passing and forging checks of $84, $18, and $11 in the Romney area, and another check at Short Gap, W. Va.

Haines also said Poland had a previous police record, having been involved in several other difficulties.

Judge Harlan M. Calhoun of the 22d Judicial Circuit was more lenient with another 18-year-old who was charged with being an accessory to forgery in the Poland case.

Because of his youth and the fact that this was his first offense, Robert Cox, of near Romney, was placed on parole for three years on condition he make restitution. He had pleaded guilty to the charge.

Haines pointed out that Cox was involved in the bad checks amounting to approximately $30.

Judge Calhoun yesterday also issued a capias (bench warrant) against Arnold Agnew of near Capon Bridge for failing to appear for trial. Haines said Agnew was charged with obtaining money on false pretense and had been released on $500 bond for action of the Grand Jury.

Following his indictment, he failed to appear for trial yesterday.

Develops Ornament Plant

H. L. Henry, retiring chief of police of Ridgeley, W. Va. is shown here surrounded by some of the many ornaments he has made and designed. Starting as a hobby, Henry has developed a sizable business in these house and yard figures and TV lamps. He is holding one of the newest designs in television lamps, made from a new type of molding material which he developed after long experimentation. Henry hopes to find a building in Cumberland where he can display and produce his line of ornaments and novelties.

Magistrate Asks Jaycees To Aid Area Juveniles

Need Help In Getting Better Environments

Magistrate Alban C. Thompson of Allegany County Juvenile Court last night asked the support of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce in helping delinquent youths who return from state institutions.

Speaking at a meeting of the Jaycees at Ali Ghan Country Club, Thompson urged members to assist him in providing better environments for boys and girls returning here from institutions.

He pointed out that the idea of a special court for juveniles originated in Denver about 50 years ago, but prior to that time, juveniles were treated as adults and were sent to institutions with hardened criminals.

At the local court, Thompson said, boys and girls are treated as delinquent minors, and the court is not a court of record, where records could be held against delinquents. Explaining procedure of the court, he stressed that all hearings are begun with a pledge to the flag, and the "defendants" are told they have the right of trial by jury and a right to appeal the court's decision.

In many cases, Thompson pointed out, when the court has to use the last resort of sentencing the child to a training school, the school to which he is sent is better than his own home, environmentally.

It is when the child returns to his home that the child is again placed into the same environment that may have helped to cause the trouble in the first place, he said. It is at this point that the Jaycees and other organizations in Cumberland can assist the court, he added.

Pointing to the Maryland Training School for Boys as an example, Thompson noted that boys are given the best of training and recreation. This year a new gymnasium has been added to the school's recreational facilities.

Ridgeley Man Turns Hobby Into A Profitable Industry

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT

Developing his natural talent and a 10-year-old hobby, Police Chief H. L. Henry of 45 Potomac Street, Ridgeley, W. Va., is opening a small industry and has resigned from his police work.

Henry has been making small household and yard ornaments for several years as a hobby, and to accommodate friends who requested them. However, in the past few months he has seen the demand for these curios grow until he has accumulated so many orders he feels he must devote his full time to the operation.

Creates Own Designs

He has a small workshop built on the back lot at his residence where he designs, molds, casts, colors and finishes his hundred or more items.

Henry sees television as one of the factors in the new demand for his products. He has designed, produced and sold scores of TV lamps, especially made for the tops of television sets.

These lamps include mostly animal designs, such as cats, dogs, deer, lions, panthers, etc., however, for next year's holiday trade, he is making an angel lamp.

Henry started out molding small figures and miniature wall plaques for his own amusement. He gradually worked into larger items, some of which are life-size figures of dogs, ducks, chickens, etc., for use as door stops, house ornaments and yard ornaments. Some of his products can be seen on lawns about the community.

He and his wife have worked the hobby into a business in their spare time, but this past summer and through the fall and winter, demand has increased steadily. He employs two youngsters part of the time to assist in production.

Henry said yesterday he was not satisfied to mold his objects out of plaster, as is generally done, but some time ago began experimenting with other materials.

He now has developed a combination of dental plaster, molding plaster, a hardener and a wax. The hardener is his trade secret.

His formula makes the items less breakable and also makes it possible, after the finish and colors are applied, to wash the items. He pointed out that most plaster figures on the market today cannot be properly cleaned after they become dusty or dirty. The items he makes can readily be cleaned with just a damp cloth, he demonstrated.

Veteran Of World War I

Henry has been a police officer for many years. Prior to World War I, he served in the Army, was on the Mexican Border and also served several years in Panama. He also saw duty with the Army during World War I. While in Panama, he was a mounted policeman.

Later, he was employed as a policeman by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for four years and also served about 12 years as police chief at Hyndman, Pa.

Henry says he has always seemed to possess some artistic talent and recalls that while in Panama, he painted post cards of the scenery there as a hobby. These came into demand and he sold many of them to other soldiers. After his return to civilian life he became interested in creating scenes by

The Weather

The weatherman is predicting fair but colder weather for this general area, and thermometers throughout the Tri-State yesterday skidded to well below freezing in most sections. In Cumberland the official recordings were a maximum of 33, a minimum of 28 and at 9 p. m. mercury stood at 28. There were light snow flurries in the area and snow still covered the ground. Highways which had been cindered, remained open except for some slippery spots.

Thomas Soldier Presumed Dead In Korean War

Cpl. Michael A. Taylor, nephew of Mrs. Harry (Grace) Wolford, Box 478, Thomas, W. Va., has been declared officially dead by the U. S. Army.

His aunt, Mrs. Wolford, this week received a registered letter from the War Department stating that Cpl. Taylor is on the list of Army personnel who have been missing in action in Korea for more than a year and are therefore presumed dead.

As in the other cases, the finding does not establish actual or possible date of death, but as required by law, it includes a presumptive date of death for the termination of pay and allowance settlement of account payment of death gratuities.

Cpl. Taylor has been declared dead as of December 31, 1953.

A native of Hambleton, W. Va., Cpl. Taylor was born February 14, 1932, a son of Vera Ann Barker, Wilmington, Del., and the late John Taylor. His father, a veteran of World War I, died in 1942.

Cpl. Taylor attended Parsons High School in 1948, and later enlisted in the Army at Elkins, W. Va. After basic training he was sent overseas. He was reported missing in action in Korea on February 14, 1951.

Besides his aunt and mother, he is survived by two brothers, Earl and Kermit Taylor, Wilmington; a sister, Miss June Ann Taylor, a student at Parsons High School, and a half-brother, Everett Taylor, Akron, Ohio.

River Board To Meet

The Upper Potomac River Board will meet Tuesday, January 12, at 3:30 p. m. in the Health Department Training Center, Union Street, according to Mark W. Roe, chairman.

John J. Kirk Jr. Killed Instantly On Pa. Turnpike

Native Of Barton Drove Tractor-Trailer

A tractor-trailer driver and former resident of this county, John Junior Kirk Jr., 37, of 844 Michigan Avenue, Glassport, Pa., was killed instantly yesterday on the Pennsylvania Turnpike about eight miles west of Bedford.

Kirk, a native of Barton who had lived at Rawlings until about a year ago, was an experienced trucker and had driven trucks and tractor-trailers for a number of years. Pennsylvania police said his tractor and trailer went over a 100-foot embankment as he swerved to avoid a car which was passing him.

Car Tried To Pass

Pvt. Raymond J. Hillenbrand said a motorist, identified as Milton G. Wood, 72, of New Castle, Pa., attempted to pass Kirk's tractor-trailer while both vehicles were traveling westward and downgrade about eight miles from Bedford.

Wood reportedly cut in front of the tractor-trailer too quickly, and the left front of the tractor and right front of the sedan came together. Wood, who was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Emma Wood, 66, cut sharply to the left, crossed the division strip and stopped in the eastbound traffic lane. He and Mrs. Wood were not injured.

Kirk, in an apparent effort to avoid hitting the smaller vehicle, cut his tractor sharply to the right, lost control of the tractor-trailer and dropped over the side. The trailer came down on top of him.

Police said he was killed instantly.

Kirk was well known here and throughout the county. He formerly drove for Morris Transfer Company here and had lived at Rawlings for a number of years. He left this county about a year ago to drive for Schrieber Trucking Company of Pittsburgh, and it was one of their tractor-trailers he piloted yesterday.

He was a member of the Cresaptown F. O. Eagles.

Kirk is survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace Kirk, and two stepsons, James and John Llewellyn of Glassport. He also leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kirk Sr. of Barton; five brothers, David Kirk, Barton; James Kirk, Akron; Robert Harvey Kirk, Bowling Green; Russell Kirk, this city, and Richard Brett Kirk, U. S. Navy. There are also four sisters, Mrs. Vincent Green, this city; Mrs. James Martin, Bowling Green; Mrs. Richard Wright, Barton, and Mrs. Louis Lupinacci, Miami, Fla.

The body will be brought to George Funeral Home here.

Chamber Officer Urges Drive To "Talk Up" City

An all-out drive to "talk Cumberland up, to praise, not knock, to build, not tear down the Queen City," was urged last night by Anthony Saeli, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking to members of the Optimist Club of Cumberland at a meeting last night in Central YMca, Saeli took as his theme a line from the Optimist Creed, which admonishes the members of the club "to think only of the best, work only for the best and expect only the best."

Inspiring Attitude

The Chamber manager listed various factors which help to insure the growth of a community and to attract new industries. The most important of these, he asserted, is the attitude of its people — "the kind of attitude that inspires confidence and creates good will."

Stressing the importance of such an attitude, Saeli declared:

"If the people of a community speak well of it, if they bear good will toward it, that good will will radiate outward; and eventually, it will reach to other communities, to prospective industries and to prospective residents.

Saeli emphasized that Cumberland must not only be sold to Cumberlanders, but to outsiders, and pointed to the opportunities that exist for creating good will.

"No salesman ever sold a product by talking it down," he said, "and no city ever sold itself by talking itself down. If we want to sell Cumberland, we've got to talk it up.

Everyone Can Help

"That means all of us. It means the taxicab driver who takes the stranger to his hotel; the bellhop who carries his luggage; the policeman on the corner who gives him directions; the attendant at the service station who sells him gas; the barber who cuts his hair; the waitress who serves him his meals; the merchant from whom he buys, and the man on the street with whom he talks.

"It means the manfuacturer, into whose office he comes to place an order; the banker with whom he opens an account; the professional man, whose services he engages, and the receptionist in the office. It means the newspapers, whose columns he reads, and the radio stations, whose programs he hears."

Masonic Lodges Install

Coffee Prices On Way Up Again After Brazil Frost

Coffee drinkers are going to have to dig a little deeper in the household budget as prices of their favorite brands are going up.

In fact the price of some coffee has already been boosted. A local distributor last night said a higher-priced coffee went up three cents yesterday and that coffee roasted and packed by the local distributor will go up two cents on Monday.

One area distributor said a boost of three cents was placed on some coffees early this week and another three cents will be tacked on in the next several days.

One of the main reasons for the boost is that a damaging frost in Brazil last year harmed a large number of trees which should be producing the bean now.

However, distributors say there is no immediate danger of a great shortage of the product. According to an Associated Press dispatch from Baltimore, leading chain stores and supermarkets priced the lower cost brands at 89-91, an increase of two to four cents.

Nationally advertised brands were going for 99 cents per pound, an increase of 2 to 3 cents. Higher wholesale costs were given as the reason.

Grand Jury Indicts Lockard In Slaying Of William Eline

Defendant Expected To Retain Counsel

William E. Lockard, 42, of Homewood Addition, has been indicted by the Grand Jury of the January term of Allegany County Circuit Court and is being held in County Jail on a charge of murder in the death of William F. Eline, 53.

Eline's body was found by City Police on December 11 in an alley off Bedford Street.

Yesterday afternoon, Lockard, who has been in jail since the night of the slaying, was taken before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris by Deputy Sheriff William Chappell.

Attorney Not Retained

Judge Harris asked Lockard if he had counsel for his defense and he answered negatively. The judge then told him that if he was unable to get a lawyer that the court would appoint counsel for him. Judge Harris said he wants to know by this afternoon whether counsel has been obtained by Lockard.

Edward J. Ryan, local attorney, was requested by Lockard to take his case. Ryan had said he would study the background and facts of the case but has withdrawn as legal counsel.

Harold E. Naughton, local attorney, talked with Lockard yesterday afternoon at the County Jail and will have another discussion with him this morning before deciding whether or not to take the case.

Weapon Still Missing

Lockard has been lodged in Allegany County Jail since he reportedly signed a 22-page statement concerning the shooting following questioning in the State's Attorney's office.

Police said Lockard had told them he shot the victim and then threw the weapon, a .22 caliber rifle, into the Potomac River at the Wiley Ford Bridge. With the use of magnets, grappling hooks and rakes, authorities made a search of the area but were unable to recover the weapon.

217 Are Placed In Jobs During December Here

Paper Industry Leads Nation In Production

Some 217 persons were placed in local jobs by the Cumberland office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security, it was reported yesterday by Francis A. Kenney, manager.

The jobs were mostly in retail sales, domestic service and temporary government jobs during the holiday season. Because of the holiday employment, placements increased last month over November's 161 placements.

The agency also placed at least one person in a job outside the Cumberland area during December.

Kenney pointed out that the active file of persons registered as unemployed at the local office reached a total of 3,797 during December. This does not include approximately 1,400 applicants who were temporarily idle during the late part of the last month.

The December total of unemployed on the active file represents a steady increase of registered persons since last July when the total was 1,789 persons. December's figure is slightly more than double of that for July.

A significant factor in the local economy, Kenney said, was the decline in textile employment, and to a lesser extent, decline in employment in rubber and needle trades. These same declines are evident throughout the nation.

At the same time, however, the Cumberland area is not too bad off. Three major industries in this area are textiles, rubber and paper.

According to a report in "U. S. News and World Report," the paper industry leads the nation in production. At present it is at its peak and equals the production level of the Korean War years.

Figures of the Federal Reserve Board shows that, based on 1935-39 figures of 100 per cent, paper and its products today lead with a rating of 216 per cent.

As for the rubber industry, it compares with lumber production. Both are 12.7 per cent lower than the Korean War peak. Rubber during the war years hit a 275 per cent production peak, while today it is only down to 240 per cent.

The report said outlook for tires and other rubber products in 1954 is considered "excellent," but companies relying solely on tire sales face keen competition.

On the other hand, textiles are on the bottom of the list, and production is 20.3 per cent off the Korean War peak. It now stands at 157 per cent compared to 197 per cent during the Korean conflict. The "U. S. News and World Report" article said sales of cloth, apparel and other such goods next spring could be equal to or slightly under 1953.

The beginning of the new year also sees the Cumberland area seeking additional industries, and many principals look at the situation with optimism.

They pointed to one great asset that the district can supply which is most important to any industry. That is water. Authorities point to the fact that this area has an unlimited supply, maybe not utilized now, but it can be had.

While Cumberland itself has not had any water shortages, several other nearby communities have felt summer droughts. But this is only because not all water is being impounded or utilized correctly yet.

Last summer, the Savage River Dam above Luke sometimes supplied as much as 50 per cent of the water flow in the Potomac River at Cumberland. At the same time, the dam impounds only about 25 per cent of the water available from the North Branch Potomac River watershed.

Fire Alarm Box Installed

A fire alarm box purchased by the Ort Brothers Bakery has been hooked up to the Cumberland fire alarm system, Fire Chief V. A. Parker announced yesterday.

The alarm box, which becomes No. 38 of the city system, has been installed on the corner of the building.

The device, Chief Parker said, will serve a four-block area, in addition to the bakery. East Side Fire Company will answer first alarms.

The fire chief said the only cost to the city was for installation. The firm will connect the alarm to its sprinkler system to boost the value of the fire protection apparatus.

Chief Parker said the department will make similar hookups for any company which wishes box alarm protection. Several years ago, the Algonquin Hotel installed an outside alarm box in connection with its fire protection system.

Registration Drops 21 During December

Although three new voters were placed on the city's registration records, total eligible voters dropped 21 during December.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, said the total Cumberland registration stood at the 14,475 mark on January 1.

The new voters include two men and one woman. Four persons, one man and three women, lost their voting franchise in the city for failing to vote during the past five years.

Two others, a man and a woman, were removed from the books after they had moved from the city.

Eighteen others, 13 men and five women, have been taken off the books because of death.

14,475 On Books

Only three changes in registration details were made during the month.

The registration includes 7,648 male and 6,556 female white voters for a total of 14,204. The 271 colored voters include 174 men and 97 women.

Cumberland registration officials are expecting hundreds of new voters to register during the coming months as interest in the 1954 city elections increases.

These will include citizens who will be 21 by June 15, the date of the city general election, and those whose names have been stricken off the books for failing to vote.

The present records, which have been undergoing constant revision since 1951 list about 7,000 fewer voters than were listed as eligible for the 1950 election.

Will Up Percentage

Presumably, the records are approaching bedrock, as over 11,000 persons cast ballots in the 1950 and 1952 elections.

In the 1950 vote, with 21,516 voters on the books, 11,494 went to the polls for the general election, indicating a poor 52 per cent turnout. Two years later, after 6,000 inactive voters had been removed from the books, 11,123 went to the polls on election day, showing a 72 per cent turnout.

Revisions made in the books during the past two years should increase the voting percentage on election day if balloting is near the 11,000 mark.

Weber Is Named Head Of City Airport Board

Commission Backs Sports Car Races

Arthur J. Weber was elected chairman of the Municipal Airport Commission at a meeting in City Hall last night.

Weber has been a member of the commission since it was formed, and has been an active member of Chamber of Commerce aviation committees for a number of years.

William R. Carscaden, local attorney, was named a member of the commission to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Adolf Blunk, who served as chairman for some time.

The commission granted permission to the Cumberland Lions Club to hold its 1954 Sports Car Races at the city airport, subject to approval of the Mayor and Council, the Civil Aeronautics Authority and Allegheny Airlines.

The Sports Car Races are planned for May 16. The club has asked that the port be available for parts of May 14 and 15 so drivers, members of the Steel Cities Section, Sports Car Club of America, may prepare for the meet.

The event drew 7,000 spectators last year in spite of rain, and proved to be one of the most popular attractions of the year. Crowds of 70,000 or more have been attending similar events in many parts of the country.

Also approved was the application of Warren G. Mullenax to renew his lease of the airport, effective March 1. Permission was given subject an audit of the books of the firm and settlement of all accounts due the city by March 31.

Youth Sentenced To Penitentiary In Forgery Case

Accessory To Crime Is Placed On Parole

An 18-year-old Romney, W. Va. youth was sentenced to from one to 10 years in the West Virginia Penitentiary at Moundsville yesterday in Hampshire County Circuit Court on charges of forgery.

Donald Lee Poland had pleaded guilty to the charges Tuesday after he was indicted by a 15-man Grand Jury. Prosecuting Attorney Ralph W. Haines said Poland was accused of passing and forging checks of $84, $18, and $11 in the Romney area, and another check at Short Gap, W. Va.

Haines also said Poland had a previous police record, having been involved in several other difficulties.

Judge Harlan M. Calhoun of the 22d Judicial Circuit was more lenient with another 18-year-old who was charged with being an accessory to forgery in the Poland case.

Because of his youth and the fact that this was his first offense, Robert Cox, of near Romney, was placed on parole for three years on condition he make restitution. He had pleaded guilty to the charge.

Haines pointed out that Cox was involved in the bad checks amounting to approximately $30.

Judge Calhoun yesterday also issued a capias (bench warrant) against Arnold Agnew of near Capon Bridge for failing to appear for trial. Haines said Agnew was charged with obtaining money on false pretense and had been released on $500 bond for action of the Grand Jury.

Following his indictment, he failed to appear for trial yesterday.

Develops Ornament Plant

H. L. Henry, retiring chief of police of Ridgeley, W. Va. is shown here surrounded by some of the many ornaments he has made and designed. Starting as a hobby, Henry has developed a sizable business in these house and yard figures and TV lamps. He is holding one of the newest designs in television lamps, made from a new type of molding material which he developed after long experimentation. Henry hopes to find a building in Cumberland where he can display and produce his line of ornaments and novelties.

John J. Kirk Jr. Killed Instantly On Pa. Turnpike

Native Of Barton Drove Tractor-Trailer

A tractor-trailer driver and former resident of this county, John Junior Kirk Jr., 37, of 844 Michigan Avenue, Glassport, Pa., was killed instantly yesterday on the Pennsylvania Turnpike about eight miles west of Bedford.

Kirk, a native of Barton who had lived at Rawlings until about a year ago, was an experienced trucker and had driven trucks and tractor-trailers for a number of years. Pennsylvania police said his tractor and trailer went over a 100-foot embankment as he swerved to avoid a car which was passing him.

Car Tried To Pass

Pvt. Raymond J. Hillenbrand said a motorist, identified as Milton G. Wood, 72, of New Castle, Pa., attempted to pass Kirk's tractor-trailer while both vehicles were traveling westward and downgrade about eight miles from Bedford.

Wood reportedly cut in front of the tractor-trailer too quickly, and the left front of the tractor and right front of the sedan came together. Wood, who was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Emma Wood, 66, cut sharply to the left, crossed the division strip and stopped in the eastbound traffic lane. He and Mrs. Wood were not injured.

Kirk, in an apparent effort to avoid hitting the smaller vehicle, cut his tractor sharply to the right, lost control of the tractor-trailer and dropped over the side. The trailer came down on top of him.

Police said he was killed instantly.

Kirk was well known here and throughout the county. He formerly drove for Morris Transfer Company here and had lived at Rawlings for a number of years. He left this county about a year ago to drive for Schrieber Trucking Company of Pittsburgh, and it was one of their tractor-trailers he piloted yesterday.

He was a member of the Cresaptown F. O. Eagles.

Kirk is survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace Kirk, and two stepsons, James and John Llewellyn of Glassport. He also leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kirk Sr. of Barton; five brothers, David Kirk, Barton; James Kirk, Akron; Robert Harvey Kirk, Bowling Green; Russell Kirk, this city, and Richard Brett Kirk, U. S. Navy. There are also four sisters, Mrs. Vincent Green, this city; Mrs. James Martin, Bowling Green; Mrs. Richard Wright, Barton, and Mrs. Louis Lupinacci, Miami, Fla.

The body will be brought to George Funeral Home here.

Chamber Officer Urges Drive To "Talk Up" City

An all-out drive to "talk Cumberland up, to praise, not knock, to build, not tear down the Queen City," was urged last night by Anthony Saeli, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking to members of the Optimist Club of Cumberland at a meeting last night in Central YMca, Saeli took as his theme a line from the Optimist Creed, which admonishes the members of the club "to think only of the best, work only for the best and expect only the best."

Inspiring Attitude

The Chamber manager listed various factors which help to insure the growth of a community and to attract new industries. The most important of these, he asserted, is the attitude of its people — "the kind of attitude that inspires confidence and creates good will."

Stressing the importance of such an attitude, Saeli declared:

"If the people of a community speak well of it, if they bear good will toward it, that good will will radiate outward; and eventually, it will reach to other communities, to prospective industries and to prospective residents.

"It could persuade new industries to come here, and it could persuade new people to make their homes here."

Saeli emphasized that Cumberland must not only be sold to Cumberlanders, but to outsiders, and pointed to the opportunities that exist for creating good will.

"No salesman ever sold a product by talking it down," he said, "and no city ever sold itself by talking itself down. If we want to sell Cumberland, we've got to talk it up.

Everyone Can Help

"That means all of us. It means the taxicab driver who takes the stranger to his hotel; the bellhop who carries his luggage; the policeman on the corner who gives him directions; the attendant at the service station who sells him gas; the barber who cuts his hair; the waitress who serves him his meals; the merchant from whom he buys, and the man on the street with whom he talks.

"It means the manfuacturer, into whose office he comes to place an order; the banker with whom he opens an account; the professional man, whose services he engages, and the receptionist in the office. It means the newspapers, whose columns he reads, and the radio stations, whose programs he hears."

Coffee Prices On Way Up Again After Brazil Frost

Coffee drinkers are going to have to dig a little deeper in the household budget as prices of their favorite brands are going up.

In fact the price of some coffee has already been boosted. A local distributor last night said a higher-priced coffee went up three cents yesterday and that coffee roasted and packed by the local distributor will go up two cents on Monday.

One area distributor said a boost of three cents was placed on some coffees early this week and another three cents will be tacked on in the next several days.

One of the main reasons for the boost is that a damaging frost in Brazil last year harmed a large number of trees which should be producing the bean now.

However, distributors say there is no immediate danger of a great shortage of the product. According to an Associated Press dispatch from Baltimore, leading chain stores and supermarkets priced the lower cost brands at 89-91, an increase of two to four cents.

Nationally advertised brands were going for 99 cents per pound, an increase of 2 to 3 cents. Higher wholesale costs were given as the reason.
